The Danger of Underestimating

U2 Pilot Powers was downed near the Urals city of Sverdlovsk a little more than a year ago. Contradictory stories were given out by startled, unprepared and uncoordinated government information officers. President Eisenhower at last bluntly clarified the issue by saying that Powers was an intelligence agent.

But what was not cleared up was exactly how Powers' plane, a marvelous product of engineering skills, was downed. Powers, in his testimony at the trial, did not himself seem to know what had happened. Because we did not wish to believe the Soviets had a ground-to-air missile, or rocket, which would shoot a man down at 70,000 feet, many preferred to accept a theory version that an engine flame-out had caused Powers to descend to about 40,000 feet and at that altitude his plane had been disabled.

Whatever the authorities believed at the time, the consensus now is that the Russians have weapons which make the use of manned bombers an ineffective procedure of retaliation.

It was common knowledge before the U2 incident that the Soviets were engaged in a thorough air-defense effort. This was precisely why we were probing here and there, and also why we were flying the U2 missions.

Long-Range Radars

The consensus now is that the Soviets have new, long-range radars, ground-to-air missiles with a reach of 100,000 feet, and a family of air-to-air rockets. It is also believed they have developed infrared detection techniques we have had for some time.

In the recent July air show, observers saw at least four air-to-air missiles. One type resembled our highly effective infrared "homing" Sidewinder. It is assumed that the Red Chinese recovered some of these after they had been fired over the mainland by pilots based on Formosa.

While most intelligence officers and scientists estimate that the United States has a considerable lead over the Soviet Union in the quantity, quality and variety of its nuclear armory, the experts agree that Russia has enough weapons, if they can be successfully delivered, to devastate the United States.

In the field of rocket engine thrust and missile weight-lifting capability, the Russians excel us.

Even though the United States is believed to retain a considerable over-all advantage with its land-based missiles, Strategic Air Command bombers, Polaris submarines and tactical aircraft, which is the key to nuclear supremacy today, the United States cannot minimize the danger of a holocaust reflected by Russia's rocket-rattling and complete disregard of the desires of mankind for a decrease in the arms race.

Defense Department

Our Defense department, charged directly with the national security, happily does not share the bubble-head, wishful thinking typified by those persons who refuse to believe the Soviets have rocket engines powerful enough, and the technical and scientific skill, to have orbited two men about earth. They may wish it were not true, but they know better.

This wooly minded business of underestimating our most dangerous opponent is the worst sort of psychological folly. It tends to support those persons who do not want to make any concession to the national urgency which will in any manner cause them to lose peace of mind or to make any sacrifice.

One of the most disturbing examples of what the Soviets can do when they establish a priority passed almost unnoticed.

In World War II the Soviet navy was so feeble this country lent a cruiser, a few destroyers and submarines.

In early August of this year the Russians held a naval show off Leningrad. U.S. observers, and others, reported that "the display of vessels was impressive, but had revealed nothing superior to the material of the U.S. Navy."

In 1941 they had almost nothing.

In 1940 the Germans had 54 submarines. We know the Russians today have "more than 400."

SPLITS REWARD LOOT WITH SMILING YOUNGER BROTHER

GETS $3 FOR HIS HONESTY

Boy, 8, Picks Up $516 Bit of Paper

By BARBARA MILZ

Lane Cohran, 8, topped off what he termed "a hard day at school" Thursday by finding "a little piece of paper" on a cafe floor—and wound up $3 richer.

What Lane really found was a check for $516.95 lost by a salesman. The salesman, telephoned to return to the restaurant to claim the check, emptied his pockets for the boy. The man admitted, "This is all I've got on me."

NOT COMPLAINING

But Lane isn't complaining. After sharing the reward with his 5½-year-old brother Tommy, he said he will save his part "until I'm grown and I've got enough money to buy an automobile."

Lane, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Cohran of 1136 Oglethorpe Ave. SW, found the money after his father picked him up from Sylvan School where the lad is in the fourth grade.

Lane said, "He asked me if I wanted to go to the restaurant and I said yes, so we went there, and when we were about ready to go, I looked down and found this piece of paper and I said, 'Daddy, here's a check; how much money is it for?'"

"He told me, then he called the man who had the check, and the man didn't understand at first. Then he did, and he said a big 'Whewwww!'"

"I WAS WORRIED"

"We had to wait for the man. Daddy said, 'That's folding money, son, and I was worried."

Lane said he wanted to be a lawyer because his older brother is going to be one. But he admitted there are other desirable occupations. He said, "My daddy's a painter for Ford. He's the best there is and the place couldn't get along without him."

He added, 'Mother's pretty good, too, though."

Wagner Defeats Tammany

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner won a smarshing, upset victory over the Democratic city organization Thursday night and crushed Tammany leader Carmine G. DeSapio in thte process.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, who had the backing of all five Democratic county leaders, conceded defeat at 11:40 p.m. less than two hours after the polls closed.

DESAPIO CONCEDES

Wagner's lead mounted steadily as counting continued through the night. Returns from 3,650 of 4,700 election districts gave the mayor 342,996 votes to 228,101 for Levitt.

DeSapio who conceded shortly after the polls closed, suffered a personal defeat that will cost him the leadership of Tammany Hall and probably end his career as a political power. He lost his post of district committeeman in his home district to an insurgent, James S. Lanigan.

BOOST FOR GOVERNOR

Wagner, who had concentrated his campaign fire on DeSapio and on a "bossism" issue, emerged from his uphill fight as the most powerful single Democrat in the state.

GM, Union Disclose Pact Terms

By DAMON STETSON

DETROIT—The General Motors Corp. and the United Automobile Workers made public Thursday night details of their new economic agreement which, the union said, would provide workers with a net wage increase of 12.04 cents an hour.

The pact includes the basic benefits that were incorporated in the recent American Motors Corp. agreement, except for profit-sharing. But it adds a novel feature by diverting part of the initial year's wage increase for payment of the cost of hospital-medical benefits.

It also utilizes one cent of a cost-of-living increase due this month for the cost of higher pensions and the payment of half the

Kremlin Persuaded By Nehru

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI)—Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru is belived to have convinced Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev on the necessity of a summit meeting with President Kennedy to try to avert World War III, diplomatic sources said Thursday.

Nehru, on his arrival Wednesday, delivered a plea from the Belgrade conference of 25 non-aligned nations for an East-West meeting promptly to avert nuclear war. He renewed the plea during a 2½-hour conference Thursday.

LISTENS WITH RESPECT

Diplomatic sources said Nehru and Khrushchev are on good terms, that Khrushchev listens to Nehru with respect and that they believe Nehru's summit proposal may have hit home with Khrushchev. No formal statement is expected until after their meeting Friday.

Nehru left the Kremlin talks Thursday looking solemn and thoughtful although Indian sources said the atmosphere of Thursday's talks was "somewhat more relaxed." The solemnity of Nehru's mood was evident later at a reception at the Indian embassy for Indian students in Moscow.

DON'T WANT WAR

"Mankind needs the power which derives from scientific advances but it should be properly used and not misused," Nehru told the students. "To think of war today is very strange."

Khrushchev told Nehru at a Kremlin luncheon Thursday the Russian people do not want war and will never start one but that they cannot look impassively on the hysteria and war preparations in the West.

1,884 Paratroops Ordered to Turkey

By DARRELL GARWOOD

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A crack battle group of 1,884 paratroopers will fly to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's war games in Europe this weekend to test its combat readiness, the Defense department announced Thursday.

The unit is the First Battle Group of the 327th Regiment of the famed 101st Airborne Division stationed at Ft. Campbell, Ky. The first elements will move out Saturday.

Some 130 fighter planes and 100 transports will accompany the paratroopers to the war games, which will be held Sept. 15-25 in Turkey, Russia's southern neighbor. The Pentagon did not link the move to the Berlin crisis, saying the paratroopers would return to this country after the games.

72 JET FIGHTERS

It was announced previously that four groups of jet fighters—72 planes—were being sent to Europe for another NATO war exercise starting next Tuesday.

The new readiness maneuver was announced amid these other defense developments:

1. President John F. Kennedy told Congress that Paris had agreed to allow French Nato forces to receive training in the use of U.S. atomic weapons. He asked the lawmakers to approve the program swiftly. Because of the Paris ban on U.S. nuclear weapons on French soil, the French troops will receive the training in West Germany. (Story on Page 2).

CANADA INCREASES

2. The army called for 20,000 draftees in October. This was 5,000 below the September call but more than triple the 5,000-6,000 monthly draft before the Berlin crisis. The Defense department Wednesday put 148,000 Reservists and National Guardsmen on alert for possible call up in the crisis.

3. Canada raised its armed forces manpower ceiling from 120,000 to 130,000 so that more troops can be sent to Europe. Prime Minister John Diefenbaker announced in Ottawa that the ceiling on Canadian forces in Europe would be raised from 12,000 to 14,000.

There was speculation when the four jet fighter groups were ordered to Europe for the NATO games that the planes might be kept there as reinforcements for the Berlin crisis. There was no official confirmation of this.

The Defense department squelched similar speculation about the paratrooper battle group by announcing it would fly back to Ft. Campbell Sept. 24-25.

The NATO war games are known as "Checkmate I" in northern Europe and "Checkmate II" in southern Europe.

The exercises are designed to

Tells Stand In Exclusive Interview

By C. L. SULZBERGER

MOSCOW — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev is prepared to meet again with President John F. Kennedy in another effort "to resolve pressing international problems" and hopes such a new encounter can be "fruitful" and that both sides "will display understanding."

This information was made available to me Thursday in a statement authorized and personally approved by Khrushchev two days after a lengthy interview I had with him. Clarifying his position, outlined to me Tuesday, Khrushchev communicated to me that:

He would always be glad to meet with the U.S. President to resolve pressing international problems, those of peace and war.

MUST BE FRUITFUL

For this, Khrushchev, to use his words, would spare neither strength nor time. But the main thing, he said, is that such a meeting must be fruitful.

"The first meeting has already taken place in Vienna. In the course of that meeting the two sides compared their viewpoints. The task now is to find solutions for the major international issues now causing concern.

REJECTS MORATORIUM

"And if President Kennedy agrees to a meeting with Premier Khrushchev it will be important that both sides display understanding of the need to resolve such important matters as the signing of a German peace treaty and the solution on this basis of the question of West Berlin as well as the problem of disarmament under strict international control.

This concludes the special state-

Auto Strike Here To End Today, Union Boss Says

By FRANK WELLS

The nearly 1,000 striking auto workers at the Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac assembly plant in Doraville will be back on the job Friday, the president of the local union predicted Thursday afternoon.

"We are doing everything we can to get them to go back to work," H. D. Barker, president of Local 10, United Auto Workers, said. "We think they'll be back tomorrow."

The workers failed to show up for work Thursday morning in a protest over union contract negotiations. The strike was unauthorized, union officials said.

A nationwide strike was averted Wednesday when the UAW and General Motors reached an agreement in principle on a new contract only seven hours before strike deadline, and negotiations have continued. The new deadline is 10 a.m. Monday.

Barker said the local workers' "biggest bone of contention" with management has to do with relief periods for personal reasons from the assembly line.

"There are not enough relief men," Barker said. "If a man has to get a drink of water, he might have to wait for a long time and then get only one or two minutes."

Workers reported as usual at the Chevrolet plant and the Fisher Body plant, but union officials there said that there was a "good bit of grumbling" about contract negotiations.

Rains Expected To Splash Back

Partly cloudy and warm Friday, increasing cloudiness and warm Saturday, with occasional rain likely in the afternoon and night is the weekend forecast by the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Temperatures are expected to range Friday from a low of 70 to a high of 85, and Saturday from a low of 70 to a high of 82. Thursday's extremes were a low of 72 and a high of 84.

Squall Darkens Key West As Carla Roars on U.S.

By LEE WINFREY

MIAMI (UPI)—Hurricane Carla churned northward through the Gulf of Mexico Thursday night, chasing some jittery residents from the Florida Keys and hurling a squall into Key West that knocked out power to parts of the city.

The Weather Bureau ordered a "hurricane watch"—forerunner of a hurricane alert—posted along the Gulf Coast from Morgan City, La., eastward to Apalachicola, Fla., a distance of about 400 miles.

The New Orleans Weather Bureau pinpointed Carla, described as a "very large storm" with 110-mile an hour winds, in an 11 p.m. report about 510 miles south of Pensacola, Fla.

The advisory said Carla was moving on a course between northwest and north-northwest at about 10 m.p.h. and that its hurricane winds had spread to cover an area 100 miles to the north of its center and 50 miles to the South.

The weathermen Thursday also discovered a new tropical storm, Debbie. The San Juan Weather Bureau said Debbie's highest winds were 70 m.p.h. but it would continue to increase in

Allen, Smith Battle It Out At Rousing Lenox Sq. Rally

By FRANK WELLS

Atlanta's women of business rubbed some mayoralty candidates together Thursday night in two different meetings and generated considerable political heat in the process.

Ivan Allen Jr. and M. M. (Muggsy) Smith lit into one another as if the other candidates did not matter, although all five were on both programs—one sponsored by the Women's Chamber of Commerce and the other by the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Smith said that four of the candidates were out hard after the Negro vote and charged that it was the "old power structure on Auburn Avenue" which was for Allen.

"Some of these votes and influence can be bought," Smith charged. "But the young Negro people will not be sold down the river. They are fighting the old men of Auburn Avenue.

"Money can not buy the mayor's job," he shouted.

Allen tore into Smith when it was his 5-minute turn to speak at the Lenox Square rally of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

He termed Smith's time in the state Legislature a record of the "grossest negligence of duty that a man can have." He called Smith a "City Hall office boy who can't get any more support in Atlanta."

Allen repeated his attack on Smith's legislative record at a rally sponsored by the Atlanta Negro Voters League, and said that in his 15 years in the General Assembly Smith has never introduced a bill for abolishing the county unit system or naming a citizens committee to study the problem.

"My own shortcomings have been thoroughly documented," Allen said, referring to his 1958 statements favoring the unit system when he was considering running for governor, but he added that he was the only cur-

Titan Thunders Across Atlantic

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI). The Air Force Thursday night successfully fired its second Titan missile in as many days on an ocean-spanning flight, this time to test a new guidance system with a "pushbutton" target selection technique.

The 98-foot aluminum rocket blasted from its concrete launching pad at 8:30 p.m. The small guidance package, one of the most advanced ever built, steered it on its way.

About 30 minutes later, the Titan's heavy nose thundered back through earth's atmosphere and slammed into the South Atlantic waters 5,000 miles southeast of the Cape.

2 More Legislators to Push For 1962 Car Title Action

By MARION GAINES

Two more legislators indicated Thursday they will push for Georgia's automobile title registration law to be put into effect on a limited scale next year.

And the director of the state Revenue department's Motor Vehicle License Unit said he feels a start could be made on implementing the law "sometime next year" provided a minimum of $281,000 and sufficient temporary working space were made available.

Sen. Earl Staples of Carrollton, chairman of the Senate portion of a joint legislative committee which has been studying ways to implement the act, said the "only hold up" that we can see is that Gov. Vandiver hasn't yet made the necessary activating funds available.

Rep. Ebb Duncan of Carrollton, chief author of the bill, said it wouldn't take "any marble halls or fancy offices" to implement the law on a limited basis next year.

A press aide in Gov. Vandiver's office indicated Thursday that it wasn't likely the governor would have any immediate statement forthcoming on the matter of funds for activating the title law.

Revenue Commissioner Dixon Oxford had said Wednesday that it might take a million dollars to put the title law as it was written into effective operation from the beginning.

No funds for activating it have been made available, Oxford said, adding it looked doubtful the operation could get under way before January, 1963.

As enacted by the last Legislature, the law would go into effect next March and require title registration of all new and used cars sold next year, and registration of all existing cars within three years.

But Rep. Duncan, Sen. Staples and Rep. Johnnie Caldwell, chairman of the House portion of the

Goulart Takes Office As Congressmen Cheer

By JUAN de ONIS

BRASILIA—Joao Goulart took office as president of Brazil Thursday before a cheering joint session of Congress.

A few hours after taking office, Goulart submitted to Congress the name of Tancredo Neves for prime minister under Brazil's newly adopted parliamentary system. Neves is a federal deputy from Minas Gerais State and a veteran politician who was minister of justice under the late President Getulio Vargas. He is a member of the Social Democratic Party, which has the largest representation in Congress.

Goulart called on Brazilians to unite for "the only internal fight we should have, which is for our economic liberation."

The 44-year-old ex-vice president, whose return to this capital to take the office vacated by the resignation of President Janio Quadros was blocked for 12 days by military opposition, was cheered when he said:

"There is no reason to be pessimistic about the future of a people who know how to impose their will for democracy against all obstacles."

Thousands of persons stood in the swirling red dust of this raw, new capital to cheer Goulart as he arrived. "Jango, Jango," — Goulart's nickname — was the shout that rose in the Chamber of Deputies. As Goulart forced his way through back-slapping crowds to the rostrum, where he was greeted by the president of the Senate, Auro Moura de Andrade, and other authorities, including Bishop Jose Newton of Brasilia. The armed forces were not represented.

Goulart's supporters from Rio Grande Do Sul State, where the people and the Third Army rose in support of his claim to the presidency, embraced each other in the corridors of Congress. "We have won!" They shouted.

"Our great task now is not to disillusion the people. We must find solutions to the problems of the common people with the same will that they have shown in defending the nation's liberties," Goulart said.

He proposed that Congress submit a constitutional amendment creating a parliamentary system to a national referendum, but he suggested no date for such a plan.

It was a moderate speech in which Goulart avoided direct criticism of the armed forces.

Goulart filled the vacancy in the presidency that has existed since Aug. 25 when Quadros unexpectedly resigned while the vice president was on an official tour of the Far East.

Goulart is the fourth president to occupy office in this capital since it was inaugurated 17 months ago by President Juscelino Kubitschek. The others were Quadros and acting President Ranieri Mazzilli, who turned over the presidential sash to Goulart Thursday and returned to his post as speaker of the Chamber of Deputies.

Goulart is the first president under Brazil's amended constitution, which established a parliamentary system of government for the first time since Brazil became a republic in 1889.

Week Limit Set On Atom War

POCAHONTAS, Ark. (AP)—A nuclear war couldn't last more than a week or so, because existing stocks of nuclear weapons would be exhausted within that time, an atomic scientist said Thursday.

And, added Dr. Thomas E. Hicks of the University of California, "by then no one would want to fight."

SETS FIRES
Mrs. Helen Vernon

Berserk Mother of 3 Sets 9 Fires

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—An insurance executive's wife stormed through her home neighborhood Thursday with a butcher knife and gasoline and set fire to nine homes, including her own.

"My children are buried in the gas sewer!" Helen Vernon, 44, screamed as police subdued her in her home. She was put under guard in St. Joseph Hospital.

Her three children were in school.

The husband, Werner C. Vernon was called home. He said his wife had become very nervous recently.

Neighbors, who said she had previously been a "hard-working housewife," saw Mrs. Vernon dash along West Angela Boulevard with the knife and a can of gasoline.

Mrs. Wilbur Warner said Mrs. Vernon poured gasoline on her neck when she tried to snatch a rug which Mrs. Vernon had set afire. Mrs. Warner suffered neck and face burns but was reported in good condition in a hospital.

Mrs. Roger O. Valdiserri was taken to a hospital, hysterical, after seeing Mrs. Vernon set a bedroom desk afire in the Valdiserri home.

A small gasoline fire was set in an enclosed patio at the home of Dr. Bernard Kohlbrenner, education professor at the University of Notre Dame.

GOD HEALS
Evangelists Eldridge and Ruth Plunkett
Healing from God is a sick benefit furnished with the Gospel, therefore everyone who is sick, should seek to avail themselves of it. The Bible is a book of miracles. In it's leaves is healing for the nations, and blessings for the soul. A prayer handkerchief that has been properly prayed over can be like a piece of cloth from the hem of Jesus' garment for the sick. This is proven by Acts 19:11-12: "And God wrought special miracles by the hands of Paul: so that from his body were brought unto the sick handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diseases departed from them, and the evil spirits went out of them." Christianity improves with age, the older believers get, the better the Gospel becomes to them, and the more wonderful the spiritual experiences they can have, if they keep progressing in the Christain life. Hire Cuban Exiles, Ribicoff Urges U.S.

By TAD SZULC

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Health, education and Welfare Abraham Ribicoff appealed Thursday to U.S. cities and communities to provide jobs for the thousands of skilled Cuban refugees who are now concentrated in southern Florida.

In a special statement, Ribicoff said that nearly 8,000 refugees from the regime of Premier Fidel Castro already have been resettled in 47 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

But, he said, 50,000 refugees remain in Florida and their ranks are growing at the rate of 1,500 a week.

"The constant net increases in the refugee population tax the resources and facilities of this area and demand a wider, more equitable distribution of the refugees," Ribicoff said.

"I want to make an urgent appeal," he said, "to other cities and communities around the country, to the managers of public and private enterprise, to avail themselves of the professional and technical skills possessed by a majority of the refugees. In many parts of the country such skills are in short supply."

Thursday morning, Ribicoff received from Florida's Gov. Farris Bryant a request for a federal contribution of $8 million to help finance the education of Cuban children in the Dade County school system.

The request emphasized the worsening impact of the refugee problem on the Miami area and the need for new federal aid for the mounting numbers of escapees from Cuba.

President Urges Approval Of Atom Training for French

By TOM WICKER

WASHINGTON—President John F. Kennedy asked Congress Thursday to permit the training of France's North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in the use of nuclear weapons.

He said in a message to Congress that an agreement had been reached with France that would permit such instruction, although no weapons will change hands and no nuclear warheads will be provided for the French.

In effect, the agreement would permit nuclear weapons training only for French forces stationed in West Germany. The arrangement would not alter France's refusal to permit the stock-piling of nuclear weapons on her soil.

TO SEND PARATROOPS

In another military move, the Defense department announced that a paratrooper battle group of the 101st Airborne Division would be flown to Europe this weekend to participate in NATO exercises. The 1,884-man unit will be returned to the United States after the maneuvers, which will be held in Turkey.

The French agreement, if authorized by Congress, would be similar to seven others that have been signed with NATO nations.

Kennedy asked Congress for quick affirmative action on the agreement, since Congress is expected to adjourn soon.

APPROVAL VITAL

Speedy approval was vital, he said, because "the gravity of the internation situation, and in particular the Soviet threat to the freedom of West Berlin, have made it a matter of first importance that the unity of the North Atlantic nations should be sustained."

Informed sources reported, however, that it would be at least four or five months before the planned training of the French forces would materially improve the capabilities of the NATO force in West Germany.

It was also disclosed that the plan had been initiated by Kennedy and President Charles de Gaulle of France when they met in Paris in June. The agreement was concluded in its main outlines in July.

SEES NO DIFFICULTY

The completion of final details with the French and necessary discussions with congressmen delayed the announcement until Thursday. It was understood that the timing was not related to recent events in the Berlin and nuclear weapons crises.

Rep. Chet Holifield of California, the Democratic chairman of the joint Atomic Energy Committee, said a subcommittee would review the proposal next week. He said he expected no difficulty in obtaining congressional approval.

The agreement announced Thursday is a limited one. Its aim is to give the French forces the ability to use weapons capable of delivering nuclear warheads, in the event their use is authorized by Kennedy.

The nuclear warheads would remain in the custody and control of the United States.

14 Censors Identified by McNamara

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara gave senators the names of 14 Pentagon censors Thursday, but he refused to identify any of them with specific reviewing jobs.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., who charges that military officers have been muzzled when they tried to speak out against Communist dangers, sought without success to draw from McNamara the names of those who censored particular speeches.

McNamara told the Senate Armed Services Committee that for him to shift the responsibility to subordinates would violate the principles of "sound management."

hTe committee is considering a resolution by Thurmond calling for a broad investigation of defense department censorship and speech review practices. Chairman Richard Russell, D-Ga., indicated the committee may act on the resolution Monday.

We Endorse Mrs. Mitchell, Brewer, Allen, Frick for School Board Posts

City at Large—Oby T. Brewer Jr.

Fifth Ward—T. Charles Allen.

Seventh Ward—Glenn Frick.

Eighth Ward—Mrs. Ray (Sara) Mitchell.

Mr. Brewer and Mr. Frick are incumbents. They are fair men of good intellect and instinct. They have performed outstanding services in management of the school system and deserve reelection on their records. We consider both men better qualified than their opponents.

Mr. Allen, running for the seat vacated by Jim O'Callaghan, strikes us as the kind of man who can make great contributions in this office. He is young, but already has served as president of the Atlanta Bar Assn., and we have observed his judgment to be sound.

Mrs. Mitchell is our choice over two estimable opponents because we have seen her to be an exceptionally energetic and intelligent woman whose dedication to the public good has been a moving force in the community. Her outstanding service as head of the League of Women Voters showed her capacity. Her grasp of government problems and her interest in education assure us that she can serve the city well as a board member.

We have confidence in these four people and commend them to the voters in next Wednesday's primary.

Let's Stop Pussyfooting on Title Law!

After all these years, the state should go ahead with implementation of its auto title law as scheduled. Even if it is getting a bit late to get full machinery into operation by next March, it is not too late to make a start.

Murray Chappell, who heads the Revenue department's vehicle licensing division, says that given space and approximately $281,000 it would be possible to begin new vehicle registration in 1962. Members of the joint Senate-House auto title study committee concur and urge it be done. As Rep. Ebb Duncan puts it, "We don't need marble halls and fancy administration buildings to put this law into operation."

When it adopted the law, it was clearly the intent of the General Assembly that it be put into effect with the sale of 1962 license plates for all cars sold after next January. However, no appropriation was made to cover additional costs to the Revenue department. Commissioner Oxford contends effective implementation would cost a million dollars.

The legislative committee will meet with Mr. Oxford next week to consider what can be done. We suggest that no time be lost and that machinery be set up, if it must be on a more limited basis, to put this program into effect. If the state cannot find office space among its thousands of square feet, let's rent temporary space and hire whatever additional personnel is needed.

If $281,000 can assure a beginning on schedule, surely the governor can find that much out of millions of state funds. That's a small price to pay for ending Georgia's reputation as a paradise for car thieves and a dumping ground for stolen cars—not to mention the huge losses now inflicted upon the public, banks, finance and insurance companies as a result of no effective law.

If the state wants to do so, this law can be put into operation on schedule. It's as simple as that. Let's join the other 42 states who already have declared war on the auto theft racket and the sale of stolen and mortgaged cars!

People Don't Want GIs Told How to Vote

We would have thought that when Secretary McNamara showed that Gen. Edwin Walker was advising his troops how to vote in congressional elections, the Senate would have understood why the general had to be reprimanded.

Apparently not Strom Thurmond, who is both a general and a senator. He still thinks he smells a rat in the Defense department.

Thurmond likes Walker. Walker likes Thurmond. But the Senate and the American people don't like, never have liked and never will like generals' advising privates how to vote.

It's Better To Have Griffin Talk Than Do

Marvin Griffin, speaking in Albany, complained there is "too much talking and sitting in Georgia today and too little doing."

It comes as a surprise to note Griffin is against talking, in view of the tremendous number of garbage cans he has filled with words.

As for the "doing" part, Georgians have reason to remember well what Griffin did as governor. They will be paying through the nose for it for years to come.

Talk is cheap, so let him spout. But the taxpayers deserve to be spared from any future dose of his doings.

Let's Hope Other Juries Won't 'Burn' Books

It is possible to remove books from libraries. It is not possible to remove ideas.

Yet usually the people who remove books are trying to remove ideas. It can't be done. Still people try.

The grand jury in Savannah is trying. It has called for the removal of certain books from Chatham County school libraries. What is worse, it first refused to name the out-of-state organization that decided the books should be burned.

In other words, we now have coy book-burners in the land. Let us hope other Georgia grand juries won't be so easily led into this un-American activity.

Georgia's Rivers Are Hope for Future

A U.S. study commission on Southeastern river basins, headed by J. W. Woodruff Jr., predicts that employment will grow faster than population in 214 counties in 17 major basins in the region in the next 40 years. Employment gains, the group forecasts, will be 116 per cent by the year 2,000 and population growth will be 103 per cent.

The report is based on availability of water resources for industrial development. Of great interest to Georgians is the fact that all or part of 143 counties in the state will be affected. Eleven of the 17 river basins are partly or wholly in the state, including the Altamaha, Flint, Chattahoochee, Ochlockonee, Ogeechee, Ocmulgee, Oconee, St. Marys, Satilla, Savannah and Suwanee.

Added significance is given the report by a recent prediction of the Population Reference Bureau in Washington. By the year 2,000, says the bureau, the United States will be using all of its available water. Because the Southeast, especially Georgia, contains the greatest unused supplies of fresh water, the potential will be limited only by our own failure to grasp our opportunities.

The study implies that the decline of many Georgia counties in population and economics can be reversed in this century. It will not just happen, however. What occurs in the next 40 years will depend to a great extent upon our own vision, planning and taking the necessary steps to put our archaic governmental structure in order.

Economic planning cannot be separated from manpower needs and this means development of a highly skilled work force. Industries which will seek out the river basins will have different requirements than those of older, existing plants such as textiles. This means the state must step up its educational efforts and that local communities which neglect to do their part for schools will pay the penalty in lost opportunities.

Many counties, even now, lack the resources and knowledge to plan intelligently. This means that whole basins, such as is now being done in the Coosa Valley region, must pool their resources to plan economic development on a regional basis. Under such pooling, county lines and the multiplicity of expensixe governmental units begin to lose some of their significance.

Space age industry will not seek cheap advantages which disregard the governmental services of education, recreation and welfare. Cheap labor will not be a decisive factor. Skilled labor will be.

Georgia business and governmental leaders should not casually brush this report aside. Rather they should begin now to plan for what appears to be in sight.—GEORGE BOSWELL.

Let's Talk Straight About Muggsy

On Wednesday this newspaper endorsed Ivan Allen Jr. for mayor. We attacked none of his opponents. We simply stated our wholehearted conviction that Allen is the best qualified candidate in a field that includes some able opponents.

Yet one of his able opponents, Muggsy Smith, went on television Wednesday night to reply to our editorial. We settled back in sorrow and resignation, prepared to hear the usual diatribe of a stung candidate, embarking on the traditional effort to misrepresent our motives, impugn our honesty and misstate the truth.

We didn't hear it.

Muggsy Smith is too honest a man to stoop to that and in this telecast he proved his honesty and his respect for the intelligence of Atlanta's people. He simply expressed his sorrow that we weren't for him in this race. An unswerving refusal to misstate the truth ran like a thread through his talk.

This is one of the reasons we have stood by Muggsy Smith's side through so many battles, held up his hand in frequent defeats, and commended him to the voters in so many races. We will again. A state representative now, he is the kind of man we need to keep in that public office. We like Muggsy.

"Then why don't you back him for mayor?" we are asked.

And our answer springs from an honest candor that matches Muggsy's. We feel that Ivan Allen's qualifications are superior for the office of mayor. And we feel that splitting of Allen's vote in order to honor Muggsy simply strengthens the extremist Lester Maddox at a time when Maddox is making surprising gains.

We deplore and urge an end to the shoveling up of old, outdated charges between the Allen and Smith camps, one against the other. Of course, Allen said five years ago, that he favored resistance to integration and adherence to the county unit system. Of course, Smith once voted for state interposition, to resist school desegregation and for a state action to support impeachment of Supreme Court justices. Shall we reject both men because they were what they were? If you reject one on that ground, you must reject the other.

Or shall we admit the South is changing, growing, progressing through American history's most difficult transition and therefore reward, not reject, those courageous leaders who change and grow and progress with it. Smith wound up fighting for open schools in the legislature. Allen wound up leading the civic fight in Atlanta that culminated in an open-school stand by the Chamber of Commerce. Both of these men are heroes of the new South, not prisoners of the past set in concrete for the edification of the bloodthirsty who hunger for vengeance. No doctrine or dogma on desegregation can be applied to either of these two men. Neither is a villain. Both are heroes.

The honest question that remains is twofold: Which of the two would make the best mayor in a time of Atlanta's call to greatness? We are convinced that Allen would. Which of the two men is running behind, so that a vote for him splits the main effort and strengthens the unqualified Lester Maddox? We are convinced that Smith is.

Devoted though we are to Muggsy Smith, we therefore support Ivan Allen for mayor, and we urge Muggsy's other friends to think deeply on these factors before casting a vote that can deeply affect the future of Atlanta.

Nixon Is Caught In GOP Middle

WASHINGTON—Richard M. Nixon is being damagingly caught in the middle of a 1964 Republican presidential possibility by some circumstances he could have controlled and by some he could not have.

His greatest problem is that though he is out of national power he retains the heavy responsibilities of national party leadership. This will not be solved even if he gives in at last to GOP pressure in California and agrees to run for governor there next year.

For even a Nixon firmly in that office would be a long way from the center of national decision-making—and of national headline-making. It is a curious fact that the governor of even so powerful a Western state as California is "too far west" to exercise the degree of influence both on party and national decisions that automatically goes to the governor of a big Eastern state—in this case, Nelson Rockefeller of New York.

Nixon as governor of California, in short, would still not carry the power necessary fully to carry out his responsibilities as titular national head of the GOP.

His second greatest problem is the sharpening squeeze being put upon him by his two rivals for the 1964 presidential nomination, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona in the GOP right wing and Gov. Rockefeller in the left wing.

Rockefeller—to whom is now falling some of the plain political luck which once went to Nixon—is moving up mainly because the Democrats in New York City are handing power to him. Their savage intraparty primary fight for the mayoralty nomination there hurts all Democrats and helps only Rockefeller.

Goldwater is making headway against Nixon largely because of the basic differences in their political positions. True, Goldwater as of now cannot be said to control any very large part of the Republican Party. But what he does control—the Republican right wing—he controls absolutely.

Nixon is in the always-difficult position of any moderate, a position that never attracts much desperately enthusiastic and fighting support, however sound it may be.

Already, for example, Goldwater is able to hold Nixon's feet to the fire by saying that if Nixon runs for governor of California this ought to take him out as a presidential candidate in 1964.

All of these problems, therefore, may fairly be described as problems Nixon never made and could not have avoided.

Military Leaders Welcome Decision

BONN—The President's decision to resume nuclear testing without further delay has been welcomed in Europe by U.S. military leaders. Many of them had long felt, as had Dr. Edward Teller and other scientists in the United States, that continuation of test cessation without inspection safeguards might imperil the American lead in nuclear weapons development.

The unilateral Russian decision to resume testing, followed within hours by the beginnings of a series of tests that had obviously long been planned, left Washington no alternative but to follow suit.

The dangers of a nuclear weapons race are fully recognized by U.S. military and political leaders and particularly by our Allies in Western Europe. Hence approval of the President's action is tinctured with a sense of somber regret. But observers believe the decision can have positive results politically and psychologically as well as militarily.

But the military importance of both the Soviet and the forthcoming U.S. tests is of paramount significance.

Military men believe we hold a large lead in the quantity or total power of our nuclear weapons stockpile, and a definite but probably smaller lead in the quality and variety of our nuclear arms. The smallest types of weapons, measured in hundreds of tons or fractional hundreds of tons of TNT equivalent, have never really been tested, though their practicality has been proved.

The new weapons tests may lead to more powerful yet smaller missile warheads than any the U.S. now has. Testing will probably result in lightening the existing warheads, thus simplifying missile construction and increasing the range of the missiles.

The resumption of nuclear testing is likely to accelerate the attempted development by both the U.S. and Russia of an anti-ballistic missile system. A giant megaton warhead ranging from 20 to 100 megatons, which the Russians mentioned in their announcement of their test resumption, might turn out to be a potent weapon against incoming missiles.

The development of a neutron A-bomb, which would minimize radio-activity and would use essentially the fusion rather than the fission process for its explosive power, seems further off, if indeed it ever proves to be practicable.

Riverdale Mother Says She Doesn't Want The Government To Own Her 2 Daughters

The Constitution welcomes expressions of opinion from readers for publication in this column. All letters are subject to editing to conform to length, libel laws, grammar and good taste. Since space is limited, letters should be kept as short as possible.

Riverdale — I thought I would write and tell you that five congressmen who voted against the President's (school) bill did just what the real Southern white people wanted them to do.

There is too much federal force being put on us white people. I wrote them for one and I know lots more who did. You see, we aren't going to fall to the black plague. I don't want the government to own my two daughters. They will never be sent to school with Negroes.

I don't want them to degrade theirself and lose their dignity by associating with Negroes.

I hope Lester Maddox gets to be mayor of Atlanta. I'm sure glad I moved out of Atlanta or I would have lost my dignity.

It's a good thing old Hartsfield is going to retire because he sure wouldn't get elected again because people are sick of looking at him, also there are a lot more I can name but won't waste my time on their names.

I'll sure be glad when the new Atlanta Times paper comes out.

Only the Brave Dare Freeways

In the Mail: From Atlantan R. W. Torras, "Unless I am badly mistaken, you are entirely wrong in your concept of "Freeways, expressways, etc." Mr. Torras insists "free" in "freeway" means freedom of access as from Hunnicut St. to the Atlanta Freeway feeder. In answer, I quote "The American College Dictionary" (Random House, 1959): "freeway, n., an express highway, usually having traffic routed on and off cloverleaves."

The Los Angeles freeway system is definitely limited access. Access, that is, limited to approved ramps and by driver timidity. The cowards never start and the weak die on the road.

Or as someone described our plight, civilization used to find itself at the crossroads, now it's confronted with a confounding, confusing cloverleaf.

NOT THE PROS: Jack Mitchell, who has compiled a million-mileage shuttling buses on the "Old Highway" between Atlanta and Marietta, confronted me in person and asked, "Did you mean the amateurs or the pros when you said some drivers make it from Marietta to Atlanta in 15 minutes?" (The Rapid Transit estimate is 22.)

The reference was strictly to the stock car amateurs. They drive furiously and apparently for fun.

Automotive engineers say the temperature in a moving car ranges from 45 degrees at the air conditioning coils to 1,955 degrees at the exhaust valve. The range does not take into account the reading under the collar of him annoyed in heavy traffic.

HOW IT STARTED: "Bringing home the bacon" is an expression arising from a custom of the Medieval Church. To him who could kneel before the church door and swear there had been no quarrel in the home for a year was given a hunk of sidemeat.

In other words, the Middle Ages husband went to church with the admonition, "See to it that you bring the fatback."

League of Women Voters

Powers, Duties Outlined Of Mayor and Aldermen

The Board of Aldermen operates through the committee system, a fact which gives the mayor's power to appoint committees particular importance. The 23 committees meet, some regularly, others subject to call, and then present their reports to the full Board of Aldermen, where the reports are usually approved without debate. Committee meetings are open to the public, and all public hearings are held before committees, not before the entire board.

Editor's Note: This brief outline of powers and duties of Atlanta's mayor and Board of Aldermen was compiled by the League of Women Voters of Atlanta and is reprinted as a public service from the League's publication, Facts. It clarifies just what citizens will be voting for in the Sept. 13 primary.

City Government—The Mayor. The city government of Atlanta is the "weak mayor" type. The Mayor has the following powers: (1) appointment of all committees of the Board of Aldermen and ex officio membership on each committee; (2) appointment of all department heads, who are confirmed by the Board of Aldermen (incumbents elected by the Board before this power was given to the Mayor are reelected by the Board, but the Mayor makes the appointment if the place is filled by someone other than the incumbent); (3) membership on the Budget Commission, which sets at the beginning of the year the amount the Board of Aldermen may spend during the year; (4) veto power over acts of the Board of Aldermen, a two-thirds vote being necessary to override his veto. He has been given the power to appoint an administrative assistant, but the present mayor has never done so. The mayor's duties extend beyond his leadership of the Board, exercised through committee appointments, etc., to representing the city before congressional committees and other governmental bodies in order to obtain federal money for Atlanta, and to working with the Fulton County Legislative delegation for administration-favored bills affecting Atlanta. In addition to this, he performs the functions of the "weak" mayor, such as welcoming visitors and delegations and handing out the "keys to the city."

The Board of Aldermen. The Board of Aldermen derives its powers from the City Charter, which is an act, with amendments, of the General Assembly. Under the charter, it may enact ordinances not in conflict with the charter, which comprises the City Code. It adopts the city budget, sets the tax rate on which there is no limit, sets the salaries of all appointed city officials (although the General Assembly may raise them), grants business and liquor licenses, passes on all zoning matters, street and road improvements, traffic control, etc.

The ability of a candidate to fill the office for which he has offered can best be judged by measuring it against the duties he will be required to perform and the authority he will exercise. To enable you to make this judgment for yourself, the League of Women Voters includes in this issue brief resumes of the operation of the Atlanta City Government and of the Board of Education.

Although all Aldermen are elected by the city-at-large, in one instance Ward Courtesy is the unwritten rule and it affects voting in other matters. No application for a liquor license is considered by the Police Committee unless it has prior approval of both Aldermen from the affected ward. Some Aldermen vote according to Ward Courtesy in zoning matters, overriding both the Planning Commission and the Zoning Committee of the Board of Aldermen. Those favoring Ward Courtesy say that the representatives living in a ward are closer to the problems of the people living there. Those opposing it say that Aldermen are elected by the city-at-large and therefore should consider the interests of the entire city above those of their particular ward, and that it is easier for special interests to bring pressure on two Aldermen than on the entire Aldermanic Board.

The President of the Board of Aldermen, who is elected by the city-at-large, presides over meetings of the Board of Aldermen and may be appointed to any committee, although he cannot vote. The Mayor presides over the Board only for elections.

It Was the Same and Different And He Couldn't Go Back by It

RABUN GAP—High here in the hills I came. I came to do nothing more than to see what I had lost, or if I had lost anything. Tall weeds were foils for the wind and bright tops of yellow weeds looked over the fences into the green, pure pasture lands. Although the summer sun was yet showing red, this breeze that blows from the tops of the blue-misted mountains, winds hard by the hills, then funnels into the valley, yet had the coolness of a caress.

The turn took me down a half-mile of dirt road. On one side was the corn, tall, its tassels holding the heat. On the other were beans, and it looked as if this had been a good year.

People in this valley had smiled when the bean year was good, because this is a cash crop. They were smiling now.

I was then at the edge of the big bluff, where the oaks started, and where the land that once we had owned began. There weren't as many now, because people are funny about trees; each man seems to see one that should come down. I never did, though. The only trees we ever cut were the ones that died, or the ones which endangered the house.

The house itself looked different. I remembered saying a lot of times that it would sure look good with a coat of white paint on it.

This the new owners had given it. They had changed the grey, and, setting on the back side of three acres, the house looked the dream cottage we always thought it was.

A neighbor said the place had been a pleasure to the new people. They had repainted it, paved the carport, rerocked the drive, planted a garden, and done all sorts of good things.

It was a pleasure to us, too. Four of us had gone into the little house here in Wolffork Valley. One son grew tall and straight and another went from a toddler to a talker. There's a blood spot somewhere there on the concrete of the steps where the little thing almost cut off his arm by falling on a glass jar. This passed, as we prayed, and then there was something else to think about: there were no longer four of us, but five. We brought our first daughter home to this house.

The yard is clean and the grass trimmed. Once this was a briar patch and rabbits had the run of the place. Quail came to feed and water. An opossum once raised a litter not 100 feet from our bedroom window.

"You going back past there?" the neighbor asked.

I said I didn't know. But I did know. I knew I wasn't going back. Not to stop. Not to look in.

I rode away, my face turned from the open window, but the way of the wind was yet on my neck.

I guess it was the wind. Or else it was something saying that whatever it is you have lost, you can't find that same thing again in a house.

Roy O. McClain

It's Too Soon To Call It Quits

It is always too soon to give up. Many people come to what appears to be a dead-end street of circumstances with no way to turn. Feeling they have tried every method and remedy to solve the problem or change the situation and that none has helped, such people are ready to give up, to call it quits.

Sooner or later this type of discouragement comes to most of us. Winds of ill-fortune can blow contrary to desires and plans with fiendish force and fury.

The first gust of wind can be taken in easy stride but then the second and third begin to loosen our grip on confidence and surety. In monotonous frequency, bad luck parades through our lives while faith and judgment attempt to adapt and reconcile. Then a disquieting process occurs: an endless round of asking "why, why, what have I done to deserve all this punishment?" "Where is God, if He cares?" "Where are justice, decency, fair play?" The answers come in unsatisfying dribbles. Discouragement gives way to despair, despair to despondency. Then creeps in that deadly denizen—defeatism. "What is the use of trying since you can't win anyway?" defeatism asks.

At this point one of two courses of action is taken: Either the fraternity of fatalists gets another member, or desperation dictates the cowardly, or sometimes courageous course of self-destruction. Seventeen thousand American adults commit suicide every 12 months while unknown thousands of others attempt suicide but use methods that do not prove fatal. Doubtless, a significant number of these hapless souls would be living today had they found intelligent purpose and pleasure in living. Someone should have convinced them that it is always too soon to give up. There are many dangling ropes of ill circumstance in life but a knot can be tied at the end of every one of them enabling a desperate person to hold on.

Every person has to learn this lesson for himself—often, the hard way. Like Jonah. Holed up in a ship, he felt secure in his running and hiding from God. But things went contrary to his hopes. In a turbulent sea, the mariners threw Jonah overboard. But lo, in the belly of a monstrous fish, Jonah had to face himself and the stark fact that man can't run from God. He can't escape God's searching glance, even on the bottom of the sea!

It is not that God is a policing sleuth, hounding man's every footstep; instead, it is God's way of showing his love and care, lest man comes to the hard places of life and throws in the sponge without even trying to win.

The religious issue isn't gone from politics after all. A poll shows Republicans plan to run Nixon again in '64—and urge everybody to pray for a miracle.

Khrushchev vacations, while Kennedy and Macmillan prefer long weekends. At any rate, the statesmen are running this Berlin crisis under strict rules of the wage and hour act.

Why Don't They Make an Art Out of Just Being Old-Fashioned?

Everything's getting so on-purpose. Not that I'm objecting, exactly. It's more like brooding. I suppose when a people get to the point of having rules and regulations and weights and measures for every single occupation under heaven it's a sign of a high degree of civilization. But it sure makes us amateurs at living feel insecure.

Take sticking flowers in a vase. I know the Japanese made an art of it for hundreds of years but I was practically full grown before I ever heard of Flower Arrangement. And getting along with people, you know that's now called Social Adjustment. They don't even cut your hair any more, they Style it. As for going to town and buying something to wear when the weather changes, well, of course, that's Coordinating the Wardrobe.

The casual instruction your Mama used to give you about your public behavior ("Act nice . . . Don't slouch . . . Chew with your mouth closed") is pitiful social armor for a day when there are etiquette experts abroad in the land charging money to teach Manners and Grooming.

But the most diverting example of on-purpose to catch my attention lately is house fixing—now called Interior Design. A friend of mine who is changing apartments put me on to this at coffee the other day. She said she went to a department store decorator with swatches of fabric from her new sofa and a sketch of the floor plan and this expert lost no time in giving her the word on installing champagne-colored draperies at the windows and aqua bar stools.

"I have wall-to-wall carpet," she reported with a touch of awe, "and he wants me to use a little area rug over that in front of the sofa."

We all gaped at the sketch, marveling at the idea of rugs having rugs. I wondered how an interior decorator would do, turned loose in a one-room log cabin which I know about. Somebody suggested that he'd be no less accomplished here than in a sleek city apartment.

"I don't know," I said dubiously, "weeds are growing up through the cracks in the floor right now."

"Rugs," prescribed Frank Wells, who had been on the fringe of the conversation. "Stiff ones."

"Surely this cabin has a bar?" my apartment-changing friend said.

"Sho," said Frank. "How do you think they fasten the door?"

"The problem, I think," I mused, "is a little more complicated than champagne-colored draperies and Contrast in the Kitchen Area. The tin roof leaks, hoot owls fly in through the windows and there's a freize of dirt dobbler's nests around the ceiling."

All my friends assured me this kind of thing is a decorator's meat. As a matter of fact, they said, a dumb amateur hasn't any business fooling around with these matters. I gather the day is not far distant when hanging your own curtains will be on a par with taking out your own appendix.

Sportswriter Joins Kidd Campaign

Items from a political notebook: Guy Tiller, onetime Atlanta sportswriter, has joined Rep. Culver Kidd's campaign for lieutenant governor.

Kidd said Tiller will run his Milledgeville office, help with speechwriting and with correspondence.

Kidd's campaign already has more literature spread through the state than any other with the possible exception of Jimmy Mentley, candidate for comptroller general.

Edwards Knits Sack

Speaking of the comptroller general's race, Bruce Edwards continues to lead the field in phrase-making. (It was his "Sack Zack" campaign against Zack Cravey that had the state chuckling in 1958.)

Edwards was talking to a voter the other day, and told him: "I had him in a sack four years ago and you folks let him get out. I'm going to knit a little better sack this time.

He gives his newspaper, The Paul Revere, a human touch. "He's just riding about once every three months now, but he'll ride oftener next spring." (Translation: It is being printed quarterly.)

Byrd Adds a Farm

A report at the Capitol says that Lt. Gov. Garland Byrd is expanding his farm operations.

He reportedly purchased a 350-acre cattle farm in Talbot County. Two more units?

And did you notice that Byrd moved recently to sew up two units in Upson County? He is having State Game and Fish Commssioner Fulton Lovell sponsor his Ninth District rally there on Sept. 12.

Where's Dykes?

Out there (meaning at the political rallies) they're asking what has happened to Sen. Jimmy Dykes' campaign for lieutenant governor. They haven't seen him at the speakings recently.

Telfair's Tax Chief Free on Bond In Beating of Lumber City Editor

Constitution State News Service

McRAE—A weekly newspaper editor, plastered with bandages and accompanied by a police escort, Thursday swore out a warrant against Telfair County Tax Commissioner Henry Williams, charging the commissioner with assault and battery.

Sheriff John B. Walker summoned Williams to his office and served the warrant sworn by Murphy McRae, editor and owner of the Lumber City Log.

Georgia Poultrymen Ask U.S. To Help Cure Ailing Industry

By BILL POPE
Constitution Staff Writer

GAINESVILLE — The Georgia Poultry Federation voted Thursday to ask the federal government to help regulate the nation's depressed poultry industry.

In voting to call on the government for help, the Georgia federation did a complete about-face. The group, representing hundreds of poultrymen throughout the state, has fought long and hard against any kind of government controls.

The federation voted Thursday to call on the government to "supervise" cutbacks which the industry would institute in an effort to bring broiler supply in line with demand.

The proposal was made by Phil Campbell, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, who called a Southwide meeting of leaders in Atlanta Tuesday.

Campbell will go to Washington with other Southern agriculture officials next week to try to get poultry - regulating legislation pushed through this session of Congress.

The proposal was considered a last-ditch effort to curb the price depression which has plagued the industry for several months.

NOW 11 CENTS POUND

On the farm level, broilers are now selling for about 11 cents a pound. This is five cents a pound less than it costs to produce a broiler, according to Julius Bishop, chairman of the Feed Dealers Association.

Georgia is the nation's largest broiler producer.

SALE OF SURPLUS

If approved in Washington, Campbell said he believed the U.S. Department of Agriculture would also be willing to buy surplus breeder hens from producers.

Bishop warned the poultrymen that "if supply isn't brought into line with demand, production could land in the hands of five or six large firms."

Just before the ballot was taken, C. H. Newlin, a Gainesville egg broker, warned federation members that they'd "better do a lot of thinking before casting a ballot. What's wrong with the poultry industry is a lack of ethics and discipline."

REMARKS BOOED

Newlin's remarks were booed.

Just how the government would "supervise" production cutbacks has not been spelled out. But the control would probably begin at the hatchery level.

It was emphasized that the federation wanted no part in any government price controls.

Thus far in 1961 an estimated 3,650,553 visits have been made, an increase of 5 per cent over the same period in 1960.

Cobb Suit Tests Open-Books Law

MARIETTA (UPI)—Cobb Superior Court Judge James T. Manning has ordered Cobb County school officials to show cause at a hearing Sept. 23 why they should books onshr Hsshmrdfl s shrd not be compelled to open the books on financial records at South Cobb High School near Austell.

The action came wednesday following a suit by Sid Williams, publishes of the Austell Enterprise. It is first test of Georgia's open books law.

The suit named the Cobb County Board of Education, Superintendent Jasper Griffin and South Cobb Principal W. O. Smith as defendants.

Williams asked for a mandamus order compelling the principals to make available records relating to financial affairs at the school.

A MESSAGE From LESTER MADDOX

WE MUST RESTORE THE CITY GOVERNMENT IN ATLANTA TO THE PEOPLE!

To do this, we must remove it from the control of SPECIAL INTEREST groups. I submit to you that I am the only candidate for Mayor who is not obligated to nor controlled by such groups.

Place me in the office of Mayor and YOU and I can work to reverse the present trend toward socialism, conformity and the destruction of liberty, freedom and constitutional government. It is time for Atlantans to act as Americans by protecting our families, homes, jobs and businesses and, yes, our cities and country from those who care more for votes and dollars than they do for people.

ATLANTA AND GEORGIA have slipped from first to fifth place in industrial growth among southern cities during the past four years—and it's still going down. Present leadership, of which my opponents are a part, is responsible. Elect me your Mayor and YOU and I will work to reverse this trend and thereby get the plants, jobs and dollars that should be Atlanta's. YOU and I can restore Atlanta to its rightful place as a leader in the South, in the Nation and the World. Let us do it promptly.

YOU and I working together can improve social relations by not only respecting civil rights and the freedom of choice association, but we can encourage racial pride and support all our citizens in respecting civil laws, civil decency and human rights and insist that the freedom of choice of association is a fraud unless there is a freedom of choice to NOT associate. NO OTHER CANDIDATE for Mayor will make this statement.

YOU and I do not want to close our public swimming pools in Atlanta, but YOU elect me Mayor of Atlanta and WE will sell them to private community corporations or close them rather than let integration of the races take place in our pools. In REFUSING to make such a declaration, each of my four opponents is SUPPORTING INTEGRATION OF OUR SWIMMING POOLS. Will you vote for a Mayor who will permit integration of your pools, resulting in harm to all our people and millions of dollars in losses to residential, religious and commercial property owners? Are you ready to surrender all you have or is what you believe and what you own worth protecting? I respect the intelligence of my fellow citizens and I believe that when you consider and compare, your choice will be a wise one—not just a vote, but a vote for a man who dares to take a stand for what you believe in.

OF ALL FIVE CANDIDATES, LESTER MADDOX is the only candidate who has told the same story, made the same promises and has not changed when talking to the people at various rallies. All other candidates have different platforms and promises for different groups.

Can you afford to place your city in the hands of a man who refuses to tell all the people what he tells some of the people?

GIVE ME THE CHANCE to serve as your Mayor and to work with you. We will provide HONEST, EFFICIENT, PROGRESSIVE, CAPABLE and VIGOROUS GOVERNMENT in Atlanta. Our future is too great to risk placing it in the hands of one controlled by special interest groups.

I CAN DO THE JOB . . . I WANT TO SERVE YOU

Yours for a better Atlanta,

LESTER MADDOX
Candidate for Mayor of Atlanta

Attention Mr. Employer: Please give your employees time off for voting on Wednesday, September 13th. It may cost a dime or so but it will help you, your employees, your business and Atlanta. Lester Maddox, Candidate for Mayor

Spine Graft Corrects Severe Curvatures

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: We just found out our 12-year-old niece has scoliosis. Her doctor says she has had it for at least three years. He took X rays and says she may need her spine fused.

Could you explain about this disease and what they do for it?—Mrs. H. G.

Scoliosis is a curvature of the spine to one side or the other. There are, as you may well guess, varying degrees of it. Some cases are best handled by conservative treatment — that is, no drastic measures. Other times the curvature is such that more vigorous treatment is necessary, meaning, as in this case, surgery.

There are various causes of this condition, polio being a frequent one — that is, in comparison to the number of cases that occur.

Curiously, severe curvature of this type is most common in girls just before puberty, as in the case we are discussing today. It is entirely probable the condition occurred just as the doctor in the case suggested: It started about three years earlier, and probably with a case of polio not recognized at the time.

But regardless of all that, which is interesting speculation rather than of practical use now, what to do when a case becomes severe?

That is where fusion comes in.

"Fusion" is an operation in which a piece of bone is grafted to the spine at some point, to hold adjacent vertebrae rigid. This prevents further displacement, or curvature, of the spine at that point. I am sure that in this case it would not have been suggested unless the curvature was fairly severe and required such treatment.

What does it take to grow a boy?

Good nutritious food, including the proper amount of vitamins!

Good eating habits generally supply enough vitamins. But boys will be boys. So soft drinks and snacks often replace well-balanced meals and can cause a shortage of the vitamins he needs most, at the age when he needs them most!

The simple fact is that vitamin shortage can happen to anyone at any age. So be wise, guard against vitamin shortage by taking ONE-A-DAY® (brand) Multiple Vitamins! Just one tablet daily supplies all the vitamins a child or grown-up normally needs to take.

Insist on ONE-A-DAY. . . America's leading vitamins.

Aldermanic, School Candidates Repeat Pledges Before Negroes

By CHARLES MOORE

Aldermanic and Board of Education candidates repeated their promises, pledges, pleadings, predictions and their personal opinions of opponents at a rally sponsored by the Atlanta Negro Voters League Thursday night.

Mrs. Ray (Sara) Mitchell, seeking Mrs. Cliff Ragsdale's Eighth Ward seat on the Board of Education, urged, "Everyone who is satisfied with the schools the way they are to vote for Mrs. Ragsdale.

"Those who aren't," she added, "should vote for me. The board of education needs a woman member."

BIG BUSINESS

Fellow Eighth Ward challenger Dan MacIntyre said the city's school system is a "big business" that requires a businessman's control.

Glen Frick, seeking reelection to his Seventh Ward school board post, said he is running on his record and noted that he was on the committee that selected Dr. John Letson as the city's new school superintendent.

Oby T. Brewer, seeking reelection to the city-at-large school board seat, said his opponent Dr. Gerald Reed has been making "vague, unsubstantiated" attacks on the quality of Negro education here and cited figures which he said show that their education level was on or above the national average in all subjects but mathematics.

Dr. Reed criticized the increase in the cost of student accident insurance and said that it was because it was let to out-of-state firms. "Let's not settle for less than the best education," he said. "Nor settle for less than equal education for all our children."

CATES ACCUSED

In the aldermanic races, Eighth Ward candidate D. W. (Buddy) Fowlkes accused incumbent Goodwyn (Shag) Cates of "lining his own pockets and building up his own business" during his four years on the aldermanic board. Cates told the Negro audience, "Some of the people you see here tonight you won't see for another four years." But he pledged he would always be available and interested in their problems.

Pat (Alley Pat) Patrick, who is bucking the Negro community leadership to run against Ald. Milton G. Farris in the Seventh Ward, told the group, "All you have gotten for bloc voting are lights on Auburn Avenue and Negro policemen who can't arrest anybody but you."

Sixth Ward candidate Comer Hawkins said if elected he "would actively work for and support" efforts to stop police brutality and the granting of full police powers to Negro policemen.

ASKS PROMOTION

L. Carl Plunkett, who is also seeking the Sixth Ward seat, said he has had 18 years service without pay on various public policy boards and that he felt he deserved a "promotion" to alderman.

Phillip Slotin, one of the four candidates seeking to replace Alderman T. Wayne Blanchard, asked the audience to remember his service to the Negro community when he successfully defended a Negro who had been accused of raping a white woman.

Blanchard said he was running on the basis of his 12-year aldermanic record.

Negro candidate Q. V. Williamson, who is seeking to replace Alderman Jimmy Vickers in the Third Ward, told the group, "I don't want you to vote for me because I'm colored or because you know me but because I'm the best qualified man in this particular race."

City Plans Sept. 22 Runoffs

Sept. 22 was set Thursday as the date for any runover election in the city's upcoming primary.

The top two candidates in any races not decided by a majority of votes Wednesday will go at it again on Friday of the following week.

City Executive Committee Chairman Mrs. Robert L. MacDougall, said that the committee is convinced there will be runovers for some of the hotly contested posts in which there are more than two candidates.

PLANS READIED

The committee has already begun preparations for a runover as required by law. The runover must be held within 10 days of the original primary, thus Sept. 22 falls in the legal limit.

The same 69 precincts will be maintained in the runover as in the original primary, and polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m., the same hours as the first primary.

MUST WORK FAST

"We will have to work fast to get ready for the runover by Sept. 22, but we are going to do it," Mrs. MacDougall added.

With five strong entries in the mayor's race, there are few, if any, responsible observers who will predict a nomination on the first ballot. There are also three entries for presidency of the Board of Aldermen.

State Sets Sights On a Shot at Moon

Gov. S. Ernest Vandiver Thursday verbally launched Georgia toward the moon—and toward direct international trade using Atlanta as an international airport.

Speaking to members of the aviation committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Vandiver emphasized the importance of his newly named Georgia Aeronautics and Space Administration.

He said, "The space age has given birth to a new language . . . and the word exciting us most in Georgia right now is "Nova."

Nova is the moon-probe rocket which the National Aeronautics and Space Administration hopes to send to the moon—and back—by 1970.

Vandiver said, "This rocket will be built in a state, or in states, where the government and the people have the determination, and produce the manpower and the skills and the inducements, to land the contracts.

"We are determined, and we are making plans, to place Georgia in the forefront of the competition for construction of segments of Nova and for a launching site," he said.

Turning to air space closer at hand, the Governor urged, "With Atlanta talking about rapid transit in 1969, let's push with jet speed toward rapid transit to airports of the world direct from Dobbins by 1962."

Officials have pointed out the new multi-million Atlanta Airport already is crowded to capacity, and its runways are too short for fully-loaded transcontinental jets.

Dobbins Air Force Base runways, which are used jointly with Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in Marietta, have been proposed as supplemental airport space to handle transcontinental flights from Atlanta.

Vandiver told chamber committee members, "Those jets could take off on the Dobbins runways with room to spare."

The governor read chamber members a letter he has written to the U.S. Customs Bureau Commissioner Philip Nichols Jr., asking that Atlanta be designated as an international airport.

No particular airport was designated in the request.

Committee chairman C. B. Culpepper told members the Customs Bureau has four designations for its international cities. The category now being sought by Atlanta officials is Class II, where customs operations would be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with personnel on call for additional hours as needed.

Such a designation, Culpepper said, would care for an airport serving the West Indies and Caribbean area.

Chamber committee members adopted a resolution urging the Bureau of Customs to establish Atlanta as an international airport, and called for the governor and Atlanta aldermen to take similar action.

C. S. Wagner, Lockheed-Georgia vice president, was host to chamber members at a luncheon and tour of Lockheed operations prior to the business session.

Committee members also backed a motion asking the City of Atlanta to withhold a portion of the Butler Street Urban Renewal Project now used as a helicopter landing field until federal certification for helicopter operations is clarified.

Members also went on record opposing a bill in Congress which would allow supplemental nonscheduled airlines to go into competition with regularly scheduled airlines.

Lawmakers Push Car Title Law

study committee, said they feel a start can be made next year if the Legislature amends the law so that it will initially require registration of new cars only.

Murray Chappell, director of the Motor Vehicle License Unit, said he feels a start could be made "sometime next year" on registering new cars alone if a minimum of $281,000 and suitable working quarters were provided.

Rep. Duncan said he agrees with Oxford that the title registration operation probably should be consolidated with the auto licensing machinery but added: "I disagree it will take a million dollars to activate it."

Based on legislative subcommittees' studies of the operation in other states, Duncan said a "warehouse-type building" would be most practical for housing the consolidated operation here.

"That's all that's needed," he said. "We don't need any marble halls or fancy administrative offices or anything like that. A warehouse-type building would be very inexpensive."

Duncan said he has "every confidence Gov. Vandiver will put up the money to activate it" because the vote in the last Legislature showed "the people want it." (The bill passed the House, 120-58, and it cleared the Senate by 32-1.)

Staples emphasized that Oxford, Chappell and the Revenue department—as well as most auto dealers—"have been most cooperative (with the committee) in perfecting plans for implementing this law."

He said he feels that "if the Revenue department were given the go-signal now, the law could be put into effect next year for new cars only."

Coal Output for Week Leading Last Year's

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Coal Association Thursday estimated bituminous production for the week ended Sept. 2 as about 8,220,000 tons against 7,832,000 tons for the corresponding period last year.

Production for the week ended Aug. 26 was 8,045,000 tons.

Philip Ginsberg Dies; Teacher And Journalist

Philip Ginsberg, a former Hebrew teacher, journalist, and one of the founders of the Beth Jacob congregation, died Thursday in a private hospital. He was 77.

Born in Russia, he moved to the United States in 1910 and had lived in Atlanta since 1921.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Friday in the chapel of Henry M. Blanchard & Son with Rabbi Emanuel Feldman officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Survivors include his wife and two sons, Max Ginsberg, Atlanta, a former employe of Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., and Ben Ginsberg, Glencoe, Ill.

Army to Survey For Public Shelters

SAVANNAH (AP)—The Savannah district office of the Army Corps of Engineers is making preliminary plans to undertake a public fallout shelter survey throughout Georgia.

Col. W. A. Stevens, district engineer, said he and Alfred Cyr, civilian in charge of the survey program, would confer with Gov. Ernest Vandiver next Tuesday in Atlanta.

The program calls for a survey of public and private buildings, with consent, to determine their usefulness as fallout shelters in the event of a nuclear attack.

The survey will not conflict with the family fallout shelter program of the Civil Defense Councils of Georgia, he said.

The survey will be conducted by trained teams of architects-engineers. The first course for the architects-engineers will get under way at Fort Belvoir, Va., on Sept. 18, Stevens said.

The survey will kick off in Atlanta and then spread to other cities of the state.

9 Youths Face Trial in Columbus

COLUMBUS (AP) — Nine Negro teen-agers charged in connection with a theft ring here were bound to Superior Court Thursday under bonds totaling $14,000.

Local police rounded up the defendants and charged them in connection with three burglaries at business places, four counts of snatching purses from Negro women, and two counts of simple larceny in connection with the theft of auto accessories.

Police officials said detectives working on the burglary cases turned up the other offenses against the defendants, "all of whom run around together," officers said.

The Negroes, aged 15 to 18, were bound over after hearings in recorder's court.

ment sent to me Thursday morning by Khrushchev.

Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan cabled Khrushchev urging another moratorium on atmospheric tests. A negative reply to this suggestion will soon be sent to Washington and London. However, Khrushchev says he has given no nuclear warheads or long-range missiles to China or to the Soviet Union's Warsaw Pact allies. The only such weapons remain in the hands of the Russian armed forces and none are stationed outside Soviet territory except "perhaps in East Germany."

He proposes that it might be useful in easing tension for both East and West to revoke their recent steps towards greater military preparedness and then, possibly, to discuss such ideas as creation of a nuclear free zone in Europe. But this does not include revoking of the USSR's new testing program.

Pushes Super Bombs

On the contrary, Khrushchev speaks of arming his forces with "several" 100 megaton bombs despite his admission that their destructive power is dangerously devastating. He indicates that these will be manufactured in order to warn any other power against starting a war. At the same time he promises that the Soviet Union would never be the first to fight.

Khrushchev assumes a tough, relentless attitude but argues that since 1958 he has been seeking agreement to his desire for a separate peace with each part of divided Germany and creation of a free city of West Berlin under new statutes. He claims that Western dilly-dallying forced him to adopt this tough approach. Anyway, he reasons the United States provided him with a precedent for unilateral action by its manner of signing a peace treaty with Japan.

Convinced of Logic

He recognizes as grave the ensuing situation. Nevertheless, he seems convinced that logic is on his side, both the logic of history and the logic of power. In a strange Darwinian interpretation of the advance of nations, Khrushchev jokingly considers that America is still in the stage of "jumping" while Russia has learned how to "fly." This fancy refers to the earth-orbiting successes of Yuri Gagarin and Gherman Titov.

Furthermore, Khrushchev believes absolutely that when it comes to a showdown Britain, France and Italy would refuse to join the United States in a war over Berlin for fear of their absolute destruction. Quite blandly he asserts that these countries are, "figuratively speaking, hostages to us and a guarantee against war."

He expressed optimism about an imminent Laotian agreement and thought this might improve the world atmosphere. He thought any German settlement must necessarily take into account the prestige needs of both east and west.

Kennedy Visit?

At one point he indicated a guarded willingness to aid Cuba if it is attacked but he also made several peaceable statements of a general nature and hoped American and Russian soldiers would always stand shoulder to shoulder, never face to face. He thought Russia and America together guarantee world peace and suggested they agree to ban the export of either revolution or counter-revolution.

At two widely separated points in our talk he mentioned inviting Kennedy to the Soviet Union when relations were better. Once he spoke of a possible state visit. Another time, jocularly, he suggested the President join him on a bear hunt.

Thus may be summed up the impressions given by the Soviet head of government and Communist chief in an extraordinary interview at the Kremlin Tuesday.

This conversation, which continued without a moment's pause for almost 4½ hours, and which was almost entirely on-the-record, covered an amazing variety of subjects. It touched on the future of Francis Gary Powers, on how best to cook bear meat, on the relative approach of religious people and atheists to the threat of war.

It dealt with duck shooting, the tastiest way to eat pike and neutron warheads for anti-missile missiles. It speculated on international armies under tripartite command, once disarmament had been achieved, and on the problems of sending a man to the moon and bringing him back alive.

Impeccably Courteous

Throughout this discussion, which was on a free and easy basis, Khrushchev remained impeccably courteous and, although he raised his voice occasionally in order to stress major points and interrupted his doodling or fiddling with an orange ball point pen to make stabbing gestures with his right forefinger, his manner was calm, polite, earnest and friendly. He refrained from any of the major histrionics of which he is so capable when he wishes.

Furthermore, this account of our conversation which is written in and sent from Moscow, is wholly uncensored. Khrushchev himself wished to see the exact phraseology of some of the phrases he used because, as he said, he was speaking of delicate and important matters. Those quotations have been verified, that is all.

Our talk occurred on Tuesday afternoon from 4 until almost 8:30 p.m. I was conducted to the premier's office by Yuri Zhukov, chairman of the State Committee on Cultural Relations, and we were joined by Mikhail Kharlamov, head of the Foreign Ministry Press Department, and by Viktor Sukhodryev, Khrushchev's elegant young interpreter who takes shorthand notes in his own strange mixture of English and Russian.

Throughout the interview a battery of woman stenographers moved in and out of the room to keep a running account. When the door to his office opened it showed a long, rather narrow, room with plain wooden walls and simple furniture, the main articles of which were a large desk with a small table and two armchairs before it and a conference table covered with green baize and girded with chairs.

At his desk and by Khrushchev's side at the conference table were twin sets of green and yellow telephones. At one end of the room was a large engraving of Lenin, at the other a large engraving of Marx. This was once Stalin's office, but there was no memento of Stalin.

A Warm Handshake

When I passed the threshold Khrushchev, who was sitting alone at the head of the conference table, arose and came forward with a smile, warmly shaking me by the hand. He posed beside me while several photographers took pictures and then waved the others to join the group, saying, "We are all in this together."

He then signaled the interpreter to the head of the table, seating me on the right and himself taking a chair to his left. When he noticed the sun streaming on my face across the Kremlin courtyard he arose and drew a ruffled yellow curtain. On the table was a tray of mineral water and lemon pop and some green ashtrays. Late in the talk, when I asked if I might smoke, Khrushchev told me by all means and apologized for being remiss "because I am a non-smoker myself."

The premier was well dressed in a fawn-colored light suit, white silk shirt with cufflinks and grey cravat. His pink complexion was mildly tanned by the sun of the Black Sea where he had been taking a holiday cut short by Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's visit. Khrushchev admitted he had ordered that all officials should take at least a month's holiday each year but added ruefully, "As so often happens, the man who makes the rules is the first to break them."

Some Intelligent

I opened the conversation with a remark about the masses of pencils placed before each place and he laughed, saying that all pencils here had once been American-made. An American millionaire named Hammer had received a concession from Lenin to manufacture them but that was long ago. Hammer had visited Russia last year and inspected his factory.

"We have had a long business acquaintance with American millionaires," he continued. "Some of them are very intelligent men."

"Mr. Khrushchev," I began, "Do you still believe war is neither inevitable nor desirable?"

"Yes, and very profoundly too," he said. "In spite of the acute crisis which, as you say has now taken shape, I believe in the common sense of statesmen who bear responsibility for the destiny of their countries."

"They cannot but understand that in our day wars must not be a means of settling any issue and I hope they come to the conclusion that it is necessary to resolve urgent international problems peacefully—first and foremost the German problem. This can and must be settled by conclusion of a peace treaty with the two German states actually in existence."

"MUST BE FRUITFUL"

Premier Khrushchev

Agreeable to Summit

Khrushchev's ideas for a German settlement are well known and can be briefly summarized since he said nothing new on this point. He wants all belligerents in the last war to sign treaties with both East and West Germany and then to draw up a special status for only West Berlin, guaranteeing it freedom to have its own form of government and access on the basis of agreement with East Germany. He says 16 years have passed since Hitler's defeat and therefore such a procedure is overdue.

He considers this the task only of the victor nations but is not adverse to United Nations discussio nif the Big Four fail to agree. If there is such an outside initiative, he adds: "The Soviet Union does not attach much importance to whether it comes from East, West, United Nations or the neutrals. A reasonable initiative is always a commendable thing for those who launch it. We have already taken such an initiative by preparing our ideas for a peace treaty and a free West Berlin."

When I asked if Khrushchev favored the Belgrade neutrals' suggestion of another meeting with President Kennedy he said he had not yet heard of this idea. That was Tuesday. However, he continued: "I have already met President Kennedy and when it serves a useful purpose I am prepared to meet him again. The question of where to meet is of no particular importance as far as I am concerned. If the need for such a meeting arises it will be easy to agree on the place and time. The main thing is to insure that such a meeting is fruitful. "I met the President in Vienna and had comprehensive talks. It was our introduction in which we, so to say, felt each other out. We parted after the meeting, each sticking to his own opinion.

"That is natural for a first contact. But if at a second meeting we were to limit ourselves to an exposition of each other's position, which both of us know, the situation will of course not improve but, on the contrary, might even deteriorate. "It would be another thing if both sides were to come to the meeting prepared to relieve tension and reach agreement on the conclusion of a German peace treaty, on giving West Berlin the status of a free city and especially on the more important problem of disarmament.

"But the impression one gets at present is that the American side is not yet ready for this. The warlike measures being taken by the American side show Washington evidently has no desire to resolve urgent problems peacefully and prefers to increase its armed forces, threaten us with war and prevent us from signing a German peace treaty. That is the main obstacle to settling urgent problems."

Must Continue Tests

Khrushchev argued that Russia, having resolved to resume nuclear tests, must continue until there is an international agreement on disarmament—again according to his formula, set forth in the United Nations but, he continued:

"Western leaders do not agree with our disarmament proposals submitted to the United Nations and they are attempting to convince the world we are against controls over disarmament. This of course is not true. If the Western leaders really believe what they are saying, why don't they test our sincerity? Why don't they submit their proposals on disarmament controls and see our attitude?

"After all, we have said: Accept our proposals on general and complete disarmament and we will agree to any controls, the most comprehensive controls. If the West submitted its proposals and we rejected them, the whole world would say we opposed controls and we would be pilloried as liars.

"But the West knows we will accept any of their proposals on controls if they agree with our proposals on general disarmament. Moreover, if the controls they propose are insufficient, we will demand they be strengthened and the West would find itself in a difficult position. That's why the Western powers declare we are against controls without adducing any proof of this. They submit no proposals of their own for fear we might accept them."

Vigorously Opposes

At this moment I asked Khrushchev his reaction to the Kennedy-Macmillan telegram asking an end to nuclear tests in the atmosphere. He opposed this idea vigorously and at great length.

His essential argument was that such a ban would leave France free to continue testing—with American aid, as he pretends to believe — on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's behalf; and that anyway there should be no new test moratorium until there is accord on world disarmament. He also argued that the West had made many more tests than Russia and he felt he had a moral right to equal conditions.

Khrushchev then continued that the 100-megaton bomb he plans to construct would indeed have immense destructive power but was needed "to make would-be aggressors think twice." He said he wanted this ghastly weapon to warn "those who dare to attack that they will perish if they do so."

I then told Khrushchev I wished to ask a most indiscreet question but I had been reared on the journalistic theory that there was in fact no indiscreet question, only an indiscreet answer. I asked: "Does Russia have any guaranteed defense against Western weapons—such as an anti-missile missile with a neutron warhead?" In theory such a device could explode incoming missiles long before they struck.

Counters Question

The Premier replied: "I'd like to put a counter-question to you. Do you believe your military specialists are sure the defensive warheads which they have prepared against our rockets are truly effective?"

I answered that I was rather ignorant of such matters. He continued: "I may know more about these things than you because my position obliges me to handle such questions. You are intruding on the most secret ground of any country and there is not a leading statesman who would disclose to you everything that he has, all the more so in such tense times. I tell you this frankly.

"I can only tell you that at the same time we told our scientists and engineers to develop intercontinental rockets we told another group to work out means to combat such rockets. We expressed our great satisfaction with the work of the experts who produced the ICBM's. At the same time we remain very satisfied with the work of those who produced the means for combating such rockets."

Khrushchev said he did not believe his Berlin and nuclear-testing policies caused a risk that Russia might not be able to accomplish the long-range aims outlined in the party program he is presenting to next month's Communist congress. He thanked the New York Times for printing the text of this program and said it was wise for capitalists to study communism as Communists had studied capitalism since Marx. He did not think his foreign policy jeopardized the party program and in this connection made his remark about France, Britain and Italy being figurative "hostages" against war.

Called Imperialistic

I asked if Khrushchev favored some kind of East-West deal outlining and respecting spheres of influence. He scoffed at this formula as imperialistic and the cause of colonial wars, a policy that was outmoded. Instead he proposed a non-aggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw treaty bloc, an idea bruited before by Moscow and, one suspects, not entirely serious—at least now.

I asked if, while opposing war but favoring "wars of liberation," Khrushchev did not inferentially justify other powers to declare that wars against Communist states were wars of liberation. He answered by saying that no war as such was permissible but that national uprisings, as in Algeria, were.

He thought that, since Russia and America were now projecting satellites above each other, it might be desirable to negotiate agreements defining the frontiers of outer space. But cooperative use of space would be impossible without a prior disarmament accord.

I asked him to define the distinction between "peace" and "peaceful coexistence," a phrase much favored by Moscow. He did this at length.

Hedges on Cuba

I asked if Marshal Malinovsky's statement that the base of any military aircraft intruding over the "Socialist country would be rocketed" meant to include under its umbrella any country calling itself "Socialist," whether it was or was not allied to the USSR. I mentioned that both Yugoslavia and Cuba called themselves "Socialist" and were not Soviet allies.

Khrushchev replied that he opposed any such flights but that in the case of a Socialist land like Yugoslavia he would be in no position to know if such an intrusion over its airspace was with the consent of Belgrade or not.

However, were Yugoslavia to be attacked by "an imperialist power" and requested aid, that aid would be provided. This was Russia's attitude towards all "Socialist" states.

However, here he drew a sharp distinction with Cuba. He said Premier Fidel Castro was "not a member of the Communist Party" but "a revolutionary and a patriot. If he does join the party he would be a worthy addition but that depends on him."

Feels Reds Stronger

Khrushchev also had the following views on the subjects of direct interest to Americans.

1. During their Vienna talks "President Kennedy said to me 'our forces are equal. We have the ability to destroy each other.' I agree with this although privately I contest his analysis as I feel we are stronger. But certainly we shouldn't start a war to find out who is right. That would be savagery. Let us simply recognize that we are equal and can destroy each other and draw from this the conclusion that together we can guarantee world peace. Let us compete not in an arms race but in the development of our economies and the material benefits of our peoples and let history decide who is the victor—without a war."

2. Khrushchev said furthermore there was no provision in Soviet law for the early release of prisoners but he wasn't sure whether this could technically apply to Francis Gary Powers, the U2 pilot. Nevertheless he hinted that Powers might be released if and when relations between Moscow and Washington improve.

"It is difficult for me to indulge in speculation. Nevertheless my impression after our Vienna meeting was that Mr. Kennedy understands the need to improve relations between our countries. But evidently he is meeting with many difficulties. If you want to know what these are I suggest you ask him."

No Fixed Schedule

Khrushchev admitted frankly that there was not yet any fixed schedule for the landing of a Soviet citizen on the moon. He explained this accordingly:

"It is not a question of mooning him but of de-mooning him. Our national emblem is already on the moon but we don't want to place a coffin beside it."

Khrushchev then took off his bifocal glasses, expressed pleasure when I told him I though his answers had been frank and said, "We want to be strong in politics but to do that you must be frank."

"I don't remember who it was who said that a diplomat is given a tongue in order to conceal his thoughts. He who does that is no diplomat but a cheap politician. His policy is bound to end in failure."

Reminiscing about the past, Khrushchev expressed the hope that the United States and Russia would never fight each other and said he had told this to President Eisenhower. He added: "We would consider it a great happiness if the soldiers of these two countries should never stand face to face but always shoulder to shoulder. We are the strongest countries in the world and if we unite for peace there can be no war. Then if any madman wanted war we would but have to shake our fingers to warn him off.

Compelled to Test

"Now the United States is arming and we are too. We are spending money and energy in preparations to destroy people. We are making nuclear tests.

"But what the hell do we want with tests? You can't put a bomb in the soup or make an overcoat out of it. Nevertheless, we are completed to test."

After a pleasant digression into the pleasures of field sport, Khrushchev expressed the hope that — after a German peace treaty has been signed—"I will invite President Kennedy to come and shoot bear with me."

He then mused about different ways of decreasing international tension—the need to end military bases on foreign soil, the desirabilility of a nuclear-free zone in central Europe, the reduction of garrisons stationed in foreign countries. At this point he expressed the hope that "we should agree to revoke our orders we both (America and Russia) have given to strengthen our military forces."

Proposed in 1958

I expressed the opinion that the United States was a strong nation and did not like to be threatened or bullied yet I thought his methods of seeking a German settlement were of that nature, that we felt he was threatening us. Khrushchev replied:

"That's true. I understand it and take it into account. But for my part I would like to say we proposed conclusion of a German peace treaty as far back as 1958.

"This was followed by the Geneva foreign ministers meeting I discussed the matter with Macmillan, Eisenhower and De Gaulle. In other words, we broke a lot of China discussing this. That is why one cannot say we are imposing a solution acceptable only to us.

"They want to treat us like schoolboys — sit still, put your hands on the desk, don't dare take a pen to sign a peace treaty. But we are men too and we are a strong nation to boot.

"When you wanted a peace treaty with Japan, you disregarded us and went ahead and signed it. Now that we are telling you a peace must be signed with Germany we are told—'if you dare, you'll have your ears boxed.' That is an insult to which we cannot reconcile ourselves."

I ventured the opinion that the United States was disappointed by Soviet failure to appreciate our change of policy in Laos. Khrushchev inferentially accepted this complaint. He said: "We reached agreement on this in Vienna, Kennedy and myself. We reached agreement speedily. But it is difficult for us to apply this agreement quickly.

"But we are both evidently facing difficulties. It is not us, Russia, which is negotiating in Laos. What can I do with those three princes? Or Kennedy? They decide, the three princes. We can only advise. But I feel the ice is beginning to melt on this question. I feel we are approaching a solution. We are seeking no goals of our own there. I told this to President Kennedy. We want nothing in Laos. Far from impeding matters, we are trying to help." The sun had now long since set and, after a period of gathering darkness in the council room, Khrushchev signaled for the lights to be turned on in a sudden blaze. He rubbed his eyes and looked a bit fatigued. He concluded the interview by saying:

"We hope that we shall be able to resolve reasonably all the questions at issue between our two countries. Thereby the possibility would present itself for me to invite President Kennedy to this country as our guest. We will give him a warm reception and all the honors that are due to him as a President and a guest." With that he rose, heavily, slowly, with none of the exuberant bounce he evidenced earlier. He shook hands with a tired smile and waved as I turned to the doorway.

A LETTER TO MY CONSTITUENTS-TO-BE

Dear Voters:

This is an appeal for you to use the best judgment you can summon in choosing your Aldermen.

The Atlanta Board of Aldermen is responsible for the future of our city. Good parks and civic facilities for all Atlanta will be planned and financed by the Board of Aldermen. Adequate housing, equitable opportunity for city jobs and the policy governing your Police and Fire Departments are decided by your Aldermen. Good race relations and the proper atmosphere to attract industry are greatly influenced by the Board of Aldermen. Atlanta's Aldermen, each of whom is elected by a city-wide vote, must be men of unimpeachable reputation, integrity, imagination and foresight.

I can point with pride to a spotless record in my law practice, my church, and my long participation in civic affairs. The incumbent's record leaves much to be desired.

Your vote is asked so that I can contribute to the leadership demanded by you and your city for the future.

Richard C. Freeman

Allen Duels Smith at Lenox Rally

rent mayoralty candidate to appear before a legislative committee recently to speak out against the system.

The candidates spoke first to a dinner meeting of the Women's Chamber of Commerce — which was limited to membership. All were calmer at this meeting than at the open meeting at Lenox Square.

Charlie Brown introduces a new issue into the campaign when he came out against a recent recommendation of a committee of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce that the state stop taxing inventories of business firms.

"This would cost the people of Atlanta between four and six million dollars," he said. "I fought a similar bill in the last session (Brown is a state senator), to a standstill and I'll fight it again as mayor of Atlanta."

Lester Maddox, segregationist candidate, claimed to be in the number one position and still gaining ground. He said that one candidate thought "he could inherit City Hall and when he found out he couldn't, is trying to buy it."

"He'll find out he can't buy it." either," he said.

CITES EXPERIENCE

James Aldredge outlined his experience as a county commissioner and advocated a master plan for the business district of downtown Atlanta.

"All our present growth is taking place north of Marietta Street," he said. "We need to do something to promote growth south of Marietta Street."

Aldredge said that "a lot of people are going to be fooled on Sept. 13 (date of the city's primary)."

At the Lenox meeting, each candidate was given the chance to ask one other candidate one question and the audience was given the chance to ask one question of each of the candidates.

COST ASKED

Muggsy Smith asked Allen how much he had spent so far on his campaign. Allen answered, "That is my own business, but I will say that running for mayor is an expensive thing. My friends have put up money—but not as much as one other candidate in this race."

Allen then asked Smith why all the bills in the Georgia Legislature which Smith said he sponsored did not bear his (Smith's) name.

FOUGHT UNIT

Smith answered that to get a bill passed in the Legislature it had to bear the name of someone from a small county. "I made the only speech made against the county unit system in 15 years in the Legislature," Smith said.

Maddox asked Brown why there were two campaign brochures for Brown, "one for the whites and one for the Negroes."

Brown said that he had had only one brochure prepared, but that his Negro friends had prepared another one without his knowledge—"but I'm proud of the one they got out. If I had one with me, I'd read it."

A note of humor was injected when Brown asked Allen if it were true that if he (Allen) were elected, he was going to change the name of Peachtree Road to Mills Lane. (Mills Lane is a banker backer of Allen's.)

2 TAKE TO AIR

Two of the mayoralty candidates appeared on television after the Lenox Square rally.

Lester Maddox called the other office seekers are "worn-out candidates" in his appeal for votes. He also went into detail about Atlanta's drop in economic growth from first to fifth place.

He cited Jacksonville, Fla., as a good example of planned industrial growth and showed the TV audience samples of that city's advertising.

Maddox assaulted Muggsy Smith on Smith's record in the Legislature, and called Ivan Allen the "Peachtree peacock" who believes, Maddox said, that "votes are worth more than people."

Maddox said that Brown had "made a deal" with Negroes in Atlanta and Maddox reissued his challenge to Brown to take a lie detector test.

SMITH APPEARS

Muggsy Smith appeared on WSB-TV right after Maddox. He charged that a "tremendous effort is being made to buy the mayor's race. He asked, "Which of you listeners could afford to put almost a quarter of a million dollars into a race for mayor&"

Smith asked, "Is it good for a city to be controlled by the rich? The day of the serf and the noble is over."

He called the "machine" backing Allen "most vicious and terrifying." He said Allen had a record of changing his mind: "He was against Atlanta when he was running for governor. Now he's against the state when he's running for mayor."

P. H. Taylor, 71, Toccoa Bakery Owner, Dies

Constitution State News Service

TOCCOA—P. H. Taylor Sr., 71, died Wednesday night of a heart attack. A native of Stephens County, he owned Taylor's Bakery for 27 years. He was a former city commissioner.

At the time of his death, he was a member of the city board of tax assessors. He had served as a federal appraiser on housing projects in Toccoa and the Hartwell Dam area.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church. He is survived by his wife, Nessie Hayne Blair Taylor.

Other survivors include a daughter, Miss Mary Taylor of Atlanta; four sons, Logan Taylor of Anniston, Ala., Roy Taylor of Toccoa, T. H. Taylor Jr. of Santa Maria, Calif., and Charles Taylor of Marietta; 15 grandchildren, and a great-grandchild, five sisters and a brother.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 4 p.m. at the First Baptist Church of Toccoa. The Rev. Bryan Kennerly and the Rev. Jarrett Ragan will officiate. Burial will be in the Liberty Hill Cemetery.

DeKalb Jury Picks 5 to Probe Police

A special five-man DeKalb County grand jury committee was named Thursday to investigate the DeKalb County Police department to make sure it is free of corruption, foreman Claude L. Huey announced.

The committee will probe any reports or complaints of police wrong-doing—and also those made against any county official or employe.

Huey said the committee will work with DeKalb Director of Public Safety William Graham Jr. and Sol. Gen. Richard Bell "in a continuing investigation to determine if the corruption in the Police department has been cleared by the indictments returned earlier this week."

The DeKalb grand jury indicted three county policemen on charges of burglary—which officers said they committed while the officers were on duty.

"It is the desire of the September term grand jury to be sure that the DeKalb County Police department be free of corruption," Huey said.

The investigation will continue until the grand jury is discharged in December, he added.

Huey said all citizens with any complaints or information concerning police or county employe wrong-doing should contact him or write to him at his office, Suite 315, Candler Building, Atlanta.

Huey said the special committee of grand jurors was named at the request of DeKalb County Commission Chairman Charles O. Emmerich.

He added that the names of the committeemen will be withheld to insure that all information will be received by the grand jury foreman.

GM and Union Reveal Terms

cost of hospital-medical benefits for pensioners and their wives.

Walter P. Reuther, president of the union, described the package settlement as a "very liberal package" but non-inflationary.

Louis G. Seaton, vice president of GM, said the company, in negotiating the agreement, had tried to meet its responsibilities to its employes, its shareholders and the public generally.

Negotiations between the union and the company are continuing on non-economic matters. The economic features of the contract are contingent upon settlement of the non-economic matters.

The most interesting provision of the tentative agreement was the manner in which part of the improvement factor wage rise, based on increased productivity, was utilized to provide expanded benefits.

23.7 CENTS TOTAL

Under the agreement workers would get an annual wage increase of six cents an hour, or 2½ per cent of the employe's wage rate, whichever is higher, for each of the three years of the contract. The company figures that this would mean in actuality 7.5 cents an hour the first year, 8 cents the second and 8.2 cents the third, for a total of 23.7 cents in wage increases over three years.

However, the agreement provides that 2 cents of the 1961 increase would be used to pay part of the cost of hospital-medical care, so that the new improved coverage would be fully paid without any direct employe contribution. Employes now pay half of the cost of this coverage.

The union, in its computation of what a typical Michigan worker would gain as a result of this arrangement, explained that he would be entitled roughly to 7 cents an hour under the improvement factor but would receive only 5 cents of this amount in 1961.

In return for this 2 cents, however, the corporation has now agreed, the union said, to pay the equivalent of an additional 6.7 cents per hour to cover the cost that the worker otherwise would have paid for his hospital-medical coverage. This is a net gain of 4.7 cents an hour for the worker, the union said.

$20.83 A MONTH

"This same GM worker who would normally have received 7 cents in improvement factor increase and one cent cost of living increase in September, 1961," the union said, "will gain, after tax adjustment, 12.04 cents an hour under the new agreement. This 12.04 cents an hour means an increase in his take-home pay of $20.83 per month."

The diversion of the two cents from the 1961 wage increase will not apply in future years. From 1962 onward, the improvement factor will be paid at its normal level of 6 cents an hour or 2½ per cent of base wage, whichever is greater. Auto workers now average $2.84 an hour, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

size and intensity and probably reach hurricane force by Friday.

Debbie was located about 600 miles east of Sal Island in the Cape Verde Islands. This would place it about 4,800 miles south-southwest of Miami.

The discovery of Debbie, reported by the San Juan Weather Bureau, brings to three the number of tropical disturbances now swirling in the vicinity of the U.S. mainland.

Hurricane Betsy, Carla's predecessor, is far out in the Atlantic and headed away from the U.S. mainland. The Weather Bureau said she no longer poses a threat to the United States.

Meanwhile, the Weather Bureau said that from present indications Carla "will become a major hurricane by Friday."

Interests between Morgan City and Apalachicola "requiring more than 24 hours to take precautionary measures should start at once as hurricane warnings will undoubtedly be hoisted for a portion of that area on Friday," the Weather Bureau said.

The first hurricane-force (74 m.p.h. or higher) should hit the Gulf Coast area Friday night, the Weather Bureau said.

"Tides will rise along the middle and eastern Gulf Coasts Thursday night and Friday and all persons in that area on islands and low coastal areas whose escape routes can be cut off by high tides should watch the rising waters and leave before escape routes are closed," an advisory said.

Brief squalls on the outer fringe of the hurricane hit areas of the Florida Keys with winds up to 40 miles per hour Thursday and sent some jittery residents scurrying for the mainland.

The Coast Guard reported Thursday it had evacuated its five lighthouses in the Keys—at Alligator Reef, Carysfort Reef, Fowey Rocks, Sombrero Key and American Shoals—as a safety precaution. Normally, four men are stationed in each lighthouse, the guard said.

Two Coast Guardsmen rode out the full fury of Hurricane Donna last Sept. 10 in the Sombrero lighthouse near Marathon and recorded winds of better than 180 m.p.h. on their instruments.

Carla dumped heavy rains Thursday on western Cuba and Mexico's Yucatan peninsula.

Never Felt Better, Says Mrs. Roosevelt

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, hospitalized for diagnosis of an undisclosed ailment, said Thursday she "never felt better" and hopes to go home this weekend.

The 76-year-old former first lady entered the Harkness Pavilion of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center Tuesday for a checkup and tests.

Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary, Maureen Corr, said, "We'll know soon how she is."

Bar Association Holds Open House Today

The Atlanta Bar Association is having an open house Friday at 11:30 a.m. at their new quarters in the Civil-Criminal Court building, with all members invited, plus a number of judges and out-of-town guests.

Several hundred people are expected at the informal opening of the new quarters in Room 212, Mrs. Margaret Lindsey, executive secretary of the association said. The bar association was formerly in the Fulton County Court House.

Clifford Oxford, president, will serve as host, with Mrs. Lindsey and Mrs. Corinne Magill, associate in charge of the lawyer reference service, as hostesses.

The Miss America Beauty Pageant Saturday night will provide televiewers with some "live" entertainment for a change. Mary Ann Mobley, left, Miss America 1959, on-stage master of ceremonies Bert Parks and hostess Marilyn Van Derbur, Miss America 1958, rehearse a song and dance number they will perform during the live broadcast of the pageant at 9:30 p.m. on Channel 5. Bert has emceed the show for the past five years. Don McNeill, who presides over ABC-Radio's Breakfast Club, will be host.

As I See It

You'll Need UHF For Prep Football

By PAUL JONES

Atlanta area viewers will have an opportunity to view "live" telecasts of Atlanta high school football games starting Friday night—provided they're willing to have UHF converters installed in conventional TV sets.

The cost will be justified because, I understand, the grid contests, involving such opponents as West Fulton and North Fulton, which collide at 7:45 p.m. at Grady, and Northside and Murphy, which meet at the same time on Saturday, will be highly entertaining.

Jones

The telecasts are being offered on the city's education station, WETV, which operates on Channel 30. Since most conventional sets receive programing broadcast by stations within the VHF—or very high frequency band—WETV is beyond reach of many viewers. Converters, which enable viewers to receive UHF—or ultra high frequency — programming are available. TV service and repair shops have them and provide installation for a nominal sum.

The high school football contests will be broadcast exclusively throughout the season on Friday and Saturday nights on WETV—Channel 30. Hank Morgan, one of the most popular disc jockeys and sports announcers in this area, will call the play by play.

Viewers who already have had their sets converted to receive UHF are already familiar with the wide variety of programing offered in the evening. WETV, like WGTV-Channel 8, the University of Georgia station in Athens, offers a balanced schedule of entertaining and informative program material, which contrasts with the commercial offerings on the three network-affiliated stations here.

Introduction of the "live" telecasts of the high school football games affords a good opportunity to many viewers to have their sets set up for UHF reception.

THIS APPEARS TO BE an especially good weekend for televiewing.

One of the most outstanding motion pictures ever made, "Treasure of the Sierra Madre," starring Humphrey Bogart and Walter Huston, is coming up on the Humphrey Bogart Theater, Channel 5 at 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

"Treasure of the Sierra Madre," directed by John Huston, is a story of greed, one of man's basic emotions. It tells of an unholy partnership which searched for gold in the mountains, and how each member of the party grew increasingly suspicious of each other as the quest for wealth became more intense.

The Humphrey Bogart Theater is a new presentation which will feature "The Maltese Falcon," which stars Bogart, Mary Astor and Sydney Greenstreet, on Saturday, Sept. 16. It is one of the best of the private-eye movies. It is also a John Huston production.

SHOULD A TV or radio announcer be permitted to blow his top once in a while and let go with a few well chosen cuss words when provoked by some on-the-air boo-boo or mishap?

John C. Swayze

Heretofore radio and TV stations and networks, too, for that matter, have not been too lenient with the hired help when it came to spouting profanity on the air.

But John Cameron Swayze got away with some purple prose on the air the other night.

It seems he was doing the weather broadcast. The show was being taped. Swayze, put out by a series of delays and frustrations, fired a verbal salvo.

The show was being taped and so John merely went through the routine again, this time leaving out the cuss words. It just happened that the new tape was misplaced. The tape with the "cussin" in it was used on the air.

A Preview Competes With 2 Repeat Shows

By THE TV SCOUT

BEST BET—No selection Friday.

7-8 (Ch. 5)—Sheb Wooley, who plays Pete Nolan on Rawhide, co-authored Friday's repeat with Tony Habeeb, a CBS unit man. Wooley wrote in a big part for himself in a complicated plot. Stephen McNally, the guest star, plays an outlaw who kidnaps his own son. This was filmed in a cliff area near Sonora. The scenery is ruggedly beautiful.

Sheb Wooley

9:30-10 (Ch. 2)—Preview Theater has another unsold, situation comedy pilot film to show you Friday. "Picture Window" is the same old stuff—the young couple and their children and their odd predicaments. There's the usual molehill-into-mountain premise for comedy but the show didn't sell because the cast was starless.

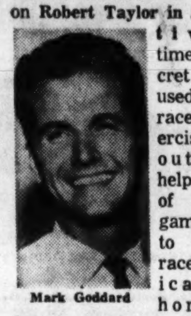
10:-10:30 (Ch. 11)—Mark Goddard is featured on the repeat on Robert Taylor in The Detectives. This time, his secret past (he used to be a race track exercise boy but outgrew it) helps the cause of justice. A gambler tries to fix a few races in a typical crooked horse race, honest jockey story. The big chase scene was filmed at Hollywood Park in the morning, before the losers showed up. Some of the real jockeys are seen in the background.



Mark Goddard

Door to Door Air Freight Aim

Delta Air Lines has requested approval from the Civil Aeronautics Board to institute the first door-to-door air freight rates in the industry.

At present, all rates are based on airport to airport. If approved by the CAB, Delta's rates would become effective Oct. 6.

'NOT A SCARE PROGRAM'

What to Do in Atom War? CBS to Look at Problem

By VAL ADAMS

NEW YORK—"In Case of War," an hour-long program about the implications of an attack upon this country, is being prepared to be televised on CBS Reports in late October or early November.

Eric Sevareid

"I do not want it to be a scare program," said Fred W. Friendly," executive producer of CBS Reports. "It will deal with what intelligent people do at a time of crisis. I do not believe, as some say, that if war comes, nothing matters. But the question remains, in case of war what do citizens and people and parents do?"

To help provide some of the answers, Friendly said he probably will invite some scientists from the Rand Corp. to participate on the program. The corporation was set up by the Air Force in 1946 to work on problems relating to thermonuclear war.

David Lowe will be the producer of "In Case of War." Friendly said it will feature a number of CBS news correspondents, including Howard K. Smith and Eric Sevareid.

DAVID SUSSKIND has purchased television and motion picture rights to "The Making of the President," Theodore H. White's book about the 1960 presidential campaign. It was issued recently by Atheneum Publishers.

Susskind said he plans to produce a 90-minute documentary program for television. Although no network arrangement has been made, the producer said he would like to put the program on the air on or about Jan. 20, the end of President Kennedy's first year in office.

"KICKOFF 1961—A Salute to College Football" will be televised by ABC Sept. 15. The program, featuring live or filmed appearances by outstanding players of the last 30 years, will be presented here from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. The following day ABC-TV begins coverage of the college grid season with the Pittsburgh-Miami game in Miami, Fla.

Highview To Open Today

Dedication ceremonies for Fulton County's new Highview Nursing Home at 2800 Springdale Rd. SW, will be held Friday at 2 p.m.

The new $1,000,000 facility replaces Battle Hill Haven and Haven Home, which supplied nursing care and housing for elderly residents.

Highview will have facilities to care for 300 elderly persons.

Haven Home was Fulton County's home for needy and infirm elderly residents for many years. Battle Hill Haven was established 15 years ago to give nursing home service to aging citizens. Battle Hill served both indigent patients and patients able to pay part of the cost of their care.

Highview is air-conditioned and has sever wards housing 54 patients each. The wards have rooms housing four persons, two persons or one person.

Recreation space is available to all wards. The 25-acre home site has many walkways for wheelchair and ambulatory patients. Small garden areas will be set aside for patients wishing to try gardening.

Ware Judge Overruled in Custody Case

A Glynn County father who attacked the right of a Ware County juvenile judge to deprive him of the custody of his two children and to order him to contribute to their support was upheld Thursday by the Georgia Supreme Court.

In a group of decisions handed down during the day, the high court unanimously held that a Ware County juvenile court was "without jurisdiction" and its order was "a nullity and of no force and effect" in the case of the children of Robert Elmore Kennison of Glynn County.

"We do not believe it was the intention of the General Assembly to confer jurisdiction upon juvenile courts to determine issues of support and custody" where "a complete and adequate remedy" is available in superior court, the opinion of Justice Carleton Mobley stated.

The court declined to delineate specifically the powers of juvenile court, which were attacked by Kennison but it held that his children, taken from home by their mother to live with their grandmother, were not "in a state of neglect, dependency and under insufficient guardianship."

The high court affirmed the judgment of a lower court in favor of the Georgia Power Co. in a jurisdictional dispute with the Central Georgia Electric Membership Corporation.

SOUGHT RESTRAINT

The cooperative sought to restrain the power company from serving the Riverside Golf and Country Club in Monroe County on the ground that the club was in an area which the co-op had contracted to serve. The Supreme Court held that the club, a new and unserved customer, properly fell to the power company under terms of the contract.

Two claimants to the Carroll County School Board lost an appeal to set aside an election which they contended was illegal because the votes of Carroll County and the independent school district of Carrollton "became intermingled" and it was impossible to determine which votes were legal." The court held that the petitioners, A. G. Styles and C. C. Perkins, did not show that there was "sufficient disqualified or illegal voting so that a different result would have been reached."

SUIT RETURNED

A suit brought by Fulton Criminal Court Sol. John I. Kelley to force Judge Jeptha C. Tanksley to expunge from court records statements made in a special grand jury presentment in August 1960, was ordered returned to the Court of Appeals. The case, the Supreme Court held, "is not one which falls within the jurisdiction of this court."

Kelley charges that the grand jury made statements about theft of funds from a county office purported to be under his custody, which were a reflection on his good name. By neither charging nor indicting him in the matter, the solicitor contends, the jury deprived him of an opportunity to "refute the charges and implications and have his day in court."

Postage Expected To Go Up to 5 Cents

By RUSSELL BAKER

WASHINGTON—It looks as if it may cost a nickel to mail a letter starting next year.

Lobbying roadblocks that have stalled a postal rate rise all year in Congress began to yield Thursday for a bill that would let second and third-class users off lightly.

PROSPECTS HIGH

As a result, prospects for quick passage of a rise improved sharply after months during which the likelihood of congressional action appeared dim.

The first break occurred Thursday morning when the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee approved a measure that would raise Post Office income by about $500 million.

The bulk would come from a one-cent rise in first-class and airmail rates. The four-cent stamp would go to a nickel and the seven-cent airmail rate to eight cents.

These rises would net the Post Office about $423 million. Slight increase in the second and third-class rates would add about $70 million.

Although the administration is not entirely happy about this uneven distribution of burdens, it is said to be willing to accept the measure in order to cut a postal deficit now running at nearly $1 billion per year.

DROP REQUESTS

The way for action appears to have been cleared by dropping President John F. Kennedy's recommendations that would have put substantial increases on users of second and third-class mail.

Second-class rates apply chiefly to magazines and newspapers. Third-class rates apply largely to bulk-mailed advertising, often called "junk mail."

On second-lass matter, the rate per pound would rise 5 per cent Jan. 1, another 5 per cent in 1963, and another 5 per cent in 1964.

In addition, the minimum charge per piece for second-class mail—now one-half cent—would rise to three-quarters of a cent Jan. 1 and to one cent in 1963. The administration had originally proposed a rise of about 75 per cent in the pound rate.

2 CENTS FOR BULK

The third-clas rate for bulk mail would rise from 16 to 18 cents per pound. There would be no increase in the minimum charge of 2½ cents per piece.

The third-class rate for small mailings—of less than 200 pieces—would rise from three to five cents. This, however, has a negligible effect on big mailers.

In this class the commission made a concession to Christmas sentiment. The cost of sending unsealed greeting cards, which are also third-class matter, would rise from three cents to only four cents per card.

In another action the House committee adopted an amendment by Rep. Glenn Cunningham, R-Neb., which would create broad powers to stop delivery of "Communist political propaganda" mailed either abroad or in the United States.

Divorce Suit Names Aide To Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James M. Landis was named co-respondent in a divorce suit Thursday just about the time the White House was announcing his resignation as President Kennedy's special assistant.

Landis, 61-year-old former Harvard Law School dean, was accused of committing adultery with his 41-year-old secretary, Pauline Todd, estranged wife of Washington public relations man Joseph A. Todd.

Mrs. Todd's lawyer, Elisabeth J. Hand, denied her client had relations with Landis. She said they had gone out to dinner together several times.

The divorce suit was filed as Kennedy "regretfully" accepted Landis' resignation, effective last Friday. In a "Dear Jim" letter, the President wrote, "You have certainly earned the right to pursue other interests."

The White House made public a letter dated Aug. 1 in which Landis asked Kennedy to accept his resignation "as soon as you deem it desirable."

Landis wrote that he had taken the job as Kennedy's special assistant for federal regulatory agencies on a temporary basis.

Ben-Gurion Bowing Out?

JERUSALEM, Israel Sector (AP)—Premier David Ben-Gurion declined to form a new Israeli government Thursday and at the same time took leave of the Israeli army which he has headed for 12 years as defense minister.

His refusal to head a new government, and his taking leave of the army in the same letter to President Itzhak Ben-Ziv, were interpreted by observers as a decision to retire for good from both offices as soon as he is relieved as head of the present caretaker regime.

It was understood, however, that the secretariat of his Mapai party did not accept Ben-Gurion's reasons for declining a new premiership and will continue interparty negotiations in the hope he will yet be able to form a coalition.

Products Tax Vital To City, Mayor Says

Says Abolition of Levy Would Bankrupt Atlanta

Mayor William B. Hartsfield said Thursday that "it would bankrupt local government" to abolish taxes on manufactured products held in inventory.

Such a move would cost the City of Atlanta and Fulton County a total of $5,416,000 a year in revenue, he said.

The mayor spoke out after the Georgia Chamber of Commerce's Industrial Development Council said it will back legislation abolishing the inventory tax and the sales tax imposed on purchases of production machinery.

AS INDUCEMENT

The council said the taxes should be abolished as a means of encouraging industrial expansion in the state.

Hartsfield said he could go along with abolishing the tax on purchases of machinery. He agreed that it was discouraging new industry from locating in Georgia.

But he said any move to abolish the inventory tax would be "better labeled as legislation to keep industry out."

WOULD BANKRUPT

"I want to state positively and unequivocally that it would bankrupt the City of Atlanta. We could not operate," he said.

Doing away with the inventory tax would deprive Atlanta of $1,131,000 a year in general operating funds and $1,413,000 in school funds, he said. Fulton County would lose $2,183,000 in operating funds and $687,000 in school funds, he added.

Such a move would wreck the ad valorem tax base on which local governments depend, Hartsfield said, and discourage local communities from seeking new industry because they wouldn't have sufficient tax revenues to pay for services the industries would need.

HARD ON OTHERS

"And industry does not come into a locality that cannot provide schools and parks and police and fire protection and other services," the mayor said.

Even harder hit would be such cities as Macon, Columbus and Augusta which "derive great sums" from their textile industries, he said.

"This had better be labeled a bill to bankrupt local government," he said.

Mayor Urges A Budget For Progress

Mayor William B. Hartsfield said Thursday that if he were running for office he'd be for more taxes, bond issues or any other financial support necessary to keep Atlanta moving.

The retiring mayor used the occasion of the dedication of the new fire station No. One at 71 Elliott St. to peer back at his own administration (his impression: favorable) and to look to the horizon his successor will face.

Hartsfield said the growing skyline of Atlanta was a tribute, among other things, to the city's policy of (1) reasonable taxes (2) racial moderation, (3) opportunities for recreation and cultural activities. The mayor also said the growth of Atlanta is a tribute to its citizens and their acceptance of the price of progress.

LIKE A CORPORATION

The mayor compared the running of a city to that of a huge business corporation and asked his audience to imagine the chief executive of General Motors saying "We aren't going to issue any more stock or sell any more bonds. How far do you think he'd get?"

Hartsfield did not envision much room for reduction of city expenditures. ("What will they cut out?")

Reviewing his administration, the mayor said the crucial event was approval in 1952 of the Plan of Improvement when Atlanta's boundaries were moved out to include surrounding areas.

FIGHT FOR PROGRESS

He told of a hard fight for this change: "Progress is the most controversial thing in the world."

The mayor pointed to the new zoo. "Some said I was building a house for monkeys, but it really was for the children."

He reviewed his administration's drive for a modern airport. "It was investigated eight times, but they didn't find anything wrong."

Hartsfield said he had hoped to live long enough to see the expressway system finished, "but this may be denied me."

"Nothing in this town is named for me," Hartsfield said in closing, "no parks no airport. They did name a monkey for me out at the zoo. And I'm fond of the little beast." (The first Willie B. died, but since has been replaced.)

Hartsfield reviewed the growth of the Atlanta Fire Department and paid tribute to "these guardians of the city."

GEORGIA NEWS ROUNDUP

Open Russian Doors, Professor Asks U.S.

ATHENS — A Georgetown University authority on international politics said Thursday that the world's best hope for peace lies in the creation of a system of open societies.

Dr. Stefan T. Possony told a conference on "Higher Education in a World of Conflict" at the University of Georgia that the banning of nuclear weapons is not the answer for world peace.

"Let's stop fighting the nuclear challenge," the professor said, "and stop dreaming that we can fall back into the cocoon of time."

Dr. Possony declared that nuclear weapons are here to stay and that American efforts should be directed toward depriving the Soviet Union of its elementary strength, which is secrecy. "Once you have done this," he said, "there is a chance for an evolution toward an open society to begin." He added that such an evolution had already begun.

$75,000 Fire Sweeps Twin Lakes Pavilon

VALDOSTA — The pavilion at nearby Twin Lakes has burned with an estimated loss of $75,000. The fire started about 8 p.m. Wednesday. About 100 volunteer firemen managed to save most of a dock on the lake by jumping into the water and fighting the flames with buckets.

Group for Blind Sues Papers

The Georgia Association of Workers for the Blind, Inc. filed a $5 million lawsuit against the "Atlanta Newspaper, Inc." in Fulton Superior Court Thursday.

The petition listed as exhibits articles which appeared in The Atlanta Constitution and the Atlanta Journal from Feb. 5 through Aug. 23 this year, but it lodged particular complaints against a number of Journal articles which appeared from June 16 through Aug. 23.

The association asked $2.5 million actual and $2.5 million punitive damages.

Negro High School Damaged By 3 Fires Set By Intruders

Three separate fires were set Thursday in Price High School at 1670 Capitol Ave., SW, causing minor damage.

Fire investigators said the fires apparently resulted from malicious mischief or burglary and were in no way connected with school desegregation.

Two of the fires were set on the second floor of the new 31-classroom educational building at the Negro school, Lt. K. G. Davis, Fire Department arson investigator said. The third was set on the first floor of the same building.

The second story fires were set in a mop closet and an adjacent lavatory for boys, Davis said. The ground floor fire was in a mop closet directly under the upstairs rooms.

Each of the fires was set by igniting waste paper, Davis related. He said in each instance the person closed the door to the room behind him, thereby shutting off air and preventing the fires from developing into potential threats.

Two maids in the building, Katie Bell Dennis, and Rosie B. Tucker, discovered smoke and ran outside and notified a member of the coaching staff. The three returned into the building, attempted to put out the fires, then called firemen.

Several companies under Assistant Chief C. C. Styron Jr. searched through the building.

Davis said the fires caused smoke damage to several rooms which were connected by ventilator shafts to the rooms in which the fires had been set. He added damage was not heavy since the rooms had concrete floors and ceilings.

Firemen listed the cause as malicious mischief attributed to juveniles.

Police said the school, one of the city's largest, and the adjacent Carver Vocational School had been targets for burglaries recently.

Wreck Kills Clarkston Housewife

One person was killed and four others injured Thursday when an automobile struck a utility pole in Clayton County, police said.

Mrs. Sue Milligan of 929 Chamblee Rd., Clarkston, was killed, Sgt. Cecil E. Sanders and Ptl. Leroy Smith said.

Mrs. Milligan's husband, James Vester Milligan, 39, a truck driver, and Henry Harrison St. John Sr., 52, of 4552 Tanner Rd., College Park, were admitted to Grady Hospital with head and body injuries, officers said.

Two other occupants of the auto, Clarence Hackney of 637 Langston Dr. SE, and Mrs. Pauline Camp of 658 Killiam St. SE were less seriously hurt.

PUPPETS PLAY FOR D. D. RAINWATER AND SUSAN PEARSON
Mrs. John Drewry Directs Play at Fairhaven School

Puppets Help Retarded Children Understand Their Own Problems

By YOLANDE GWIN

Five years ago, Mrs. John Drewry stopped by the School for Retarded Children on Peachtree near Pershing Point to offer her services as a volunteer worker.

"Dramatics and music are wonderful therapy treatments," she told the officials.

Now she is the full-time "enrichment teacher" at Fairhaven, the present school of the Atlanta Association of Retarded Children. Located at 843 Springdale Road, the school is the old DeWitt King residence.

Five times a week from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. some 125 children from a 35-mile radius of the city attend classes there. During the 1960-61 term, Fairhaven became the only accredited schol for retarded children in Georgia. William Center is the director.

Mrs. Drewry took a little time out from her work in her drama therapy department yesterday to discuss some of the methods she uses.

PUPPETS USEFUL

"We use puppets, and the results have been extremely useful," she said. "For instance, we have a mouse which we have named 'Queaky.' He be comes a real animal to the children and they direct his actions, his playing and his life in the plays we present. We also have puppets of people too, like a mother, a father, sister, brother and baby. These represent real people to the children and they act out their many social problems with them."

The small rubber puppets—including an alligator and Beulah, a big black crow—all are a part of this activated program which, as Mrs. Drewry points out, "gives the children an opportunity to understand their own problems. They can use the puppets as a media of expressing their own emotions and experiences."

The school is performing a rapidly expanding service but it still reaches only a small percentage of the thousands of retarded children in this area.

Funds for the operation of the school will be swelled Saturday, Sept. 9, with proceeds from the fourth annual Georgia Tech intrasquad football game at Grant Field. Tech Coach Bobby Dodd is honorary chairman of the fund drive for the Association for Retarded Children.

In January, 1960, the Bobby Dodd Sheltered Workshop for young retarded adults at 1100 Sylvan Road, SE, was founded. Young adults are being trained there for job placement, thereby enabling them to become self-sustaining individuals.

BEGIN BASICALLY

Teaching methods at Fairhaven begin with such elementary things as play activity. In a progressive pattern, the next step is some type of physical instruction such as climbing steps, walking and learning to use tableware. Many of the children are able to serve themselves lunch.

Pre-academic work is added slowly.

Mrs. Drewry, the former Betty Crandall, is a graduate of Oglethorpe University, Butler University, and has done professional work in drama. Currently she is taking graduate courses at Emory. Her background in therapy was established when she attended the New York Academy of Psycho-Dramatics and Psycho-Therapy in Beacon, N.Y.

Mrs. Ward Pelton, executive secretary of the association, gave some interesting background material. (She and her husband were among the six couples who inspired the founding of the Atlanta organization.)

"We first had a small classroom with 12 pupils at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. Next we moved to the old Salvation Army Mountain Camp and then we were in one the old Peachtree Street residences near Pershing Point. In 1957, the Fairhaven School was established here on Briarcliff Road."

Politicos Must Answer to the Hoffa Women

"You sent him to office, so he's got to answer to you; don't leave till he tells you how he's going to vote; these guys work for you; this isn't a parlor game; go turn the heat on them."

Doris

Jimmy Hoffa, the all-powerful president of the Teamsters, is organizing these ladies into a new auxiliary called DRIVE (Democratic, Republican, Independent Voter Education), whose purpose is to build a potent political machine.

Their initial aim is to elect Hoffa-approved candidates to public office and lobby for passage of Hoffa-approved legislation in Congress.

Male Teamsters, it seems, have not spun their wheels in political warfare. They haven't been interested. But their ladies were apparently ready and waiting for the chance.

Busloads of militant DRIVE members have been pouring into Washington for weeks to the terror of congressmen. Sen. Hubert Humphrey has called them the most effective lobbying force in the Capitol, because, he says, "they won't take 'no' for an answer." Some congressmen have been known to leave town to avoid skirmishing with them.

Hoffa trains his "troops" at the grassroots. Political clubs have been organized in all major cities. The women are told they can prevent lay-offs, receive more social security and medical aid for their old age, only if the ACT.

Determined to act, they descend on Washington. There they are taken over by an expert, taught procedure, and especially counselled on ways to fend off all congressmen's dodges. They are told to remind the hapless man that he works for them. They turn the heat on.

The report is that Hoffa's ladies, many of whom are grandmothers, do not end their DRIVE when they leave Washington. They work to get themselves elected county and state committeewomen and actively campaign against any and all anti-Hoffa candidates.

Their battle cry is: "Anyone who is against Hoffa is against us—and that includes President Kennedy."

These ladies will eventually make the League of Women Voters look as mild as the resolutions committee of a church mission league. It has taken them a long time to get the message of Carrie Chapman Catt, but now that they have it, look out.

Mrs. Lake Heads Women's Group

Mrs. Grady V. Lake of Atlanta was elected to the executive board of the Women's Auxiliary, International Chiropractors Assn. at a recent convention in Davenport, Iowa.

FASHIONATA WAS AN INFINITE VARIETY OF FASHION SWELLING TO A FINALE TO QUENCH THE INSATIABLE THIRST FOR OPULENCE THAT IS COMMON TO ALL WOMEN

Woman's Many-Sided Fascinations Are Saluted in Fashionata Revue

By RAYMONDE ALEXANDER
Constitution Fashion Editor

Woman is an enigma—even the fashion world is admitting it now.

And how do you live with such a creature?

You take her to see Fashionata, the yearly musical fashion revue presented by Rich's, Inc., to let her see her many-sided self and solve the mystery of herself for herself.

You, too, can better understand her then because you will realize she is never just one thing!

Such is the theme of this 1961 Fashionata as written, directed, and produced by Sol Kent, fashion director of Rich's. It may be said of him—no man understands woman better.

Opening last night to a best-bibbed-and-tuckered audience, and scheduled to run Friday and Saturday nights, the revue was a four-act affair of the best fashion news for this season featuring the very new, the avant garde, the devastating, the wicked from the 20s and the opulence of the Far East.

Each act was defined with an interpretation by dancers from the Atlanta Civic Ballet with choreography by Robert Barnett.

If woman is not just one thing, she may be a business. Or so the first act portrayed her. And naturally she would be satisfied only as chairman of the board.

At least that's the way she would prefer to dress.

WHY NOT?

And why not when there is such a wonderful way to dress: Maurice Renter's red coat over a two-piece jumper in black with a white blouse or Pauline Trigere's silhouette in a triangular coat or the smock comfort of Ben Zuckerman's black coat.

And then there's always the fashion of suits for the woman who means business—not just with the figure in an auditor's book but with her own—this fall it's the body-conscious suit in as many versions as imaginable and especially red with close-in-front, loose-in back jackets that reach hip top for the emphasized look.

For travel, as any executive woman will, impressive was the red cape coat over a free-style little jersey dress that was so much line it needed nothing else.

Of course, any woman of the executive suite has two "places"—a town house and a country place. Depicting life for her in the country, Fashionata presented tweeds and glen plaids in suits.

Pants? Yes, bold and plaidy and checked topped by little shorties of fur. Grey flannel culottes if the full length slim jims aren't for you.

WICKED 20s BROUGHT UP TO MORE WICKED 61

Pat Sage in Black Sequin Shimy With Feathered Skirt

Your town life would center around black. Velvet as Maurice Rentner teams it double-breasted is the recommended replacement for the little black dress.

Or grey flannel in an uncluttered suit can cinch the big deal for you. Theater time calls for something such as Herbert Sondheim's velvet black coat over a surprisingly white dress or Frank Gallant's black cape over the even more surprising white skirt, topped by a black blouse.

The gentle you was perfection in Larry Aldrich's soft blue jersey with gentle blousing around the waist. Navy may be the new color you will find for yourself to spring on fall as the surprise change, for it was an entity unto itself in this act.

EVE'S NEW FACE

The new Eve straight from the Garden of Eden that is fashion was the third act as the dissection of woman began. First were the eyes, chosen for their many looks, and accented by hats as only hats can play up eyes.

Then came the wicked 20s and the big question was to bead or not to bead. Fashion will let you do as little as a tuxedo-strip of it down the skirt or as much as gleaming you all over in it.

A happy medium was the mixing of a long torso of beads with a skirt of feathers by Rosalie Macrini. Edward Abbott's tiers of white feathers on a body of white chiffon would tickle the fancier for feathers of the 20s.

Still off-beat and just as wicked was the group of jump suits and pants in the brightest of red or the mutest of topaz.

For woman's insatiable thirst for opulence, all the riches of the East slinked through the flaps of a cleverly raised desert tent in the finale. Fashions were gold, sari-like, and carved of the most precious-looking fabrics.

Undeniable was the rich look of Teal Traina's broacade with a hem of Russian sable or of Gustav Tassell's black suit with raised patterns of gold.

And the colors were jewels themselves as the family of red dimmed to pink and glowed to ruby, as orange burned like fire or diminished to an ember.

This was Fashionata—more than an experience in fashion, a definition of woman.

RICH'S

Help Recruited To Select WOTY

By JEAN ROONEY

You can have a say in choosing Atlanta's Woman of the Year for 1961!

"We welcome all nominations from individuals as well as organizations," Miss Helen McDuffie, executive committee chairman for the city's most important yearly feminine award, announced this week.

She was speaking to committee chairmen and executive committee members at a Capitol City Club luncheon.

In years past, since the award program was instigated in 1943, an average of 400 letters of nomination have been received annually to guide the selection of Atlanta's outstanding women, in terms of service to the community.

Each of the five fields of endeavor—the arts, business, civic service, education and professions—draw a varying response each year, Miss McDuffie said, depending on public interest.

ALL MEN

She asked the assembled committee chairmen—all men—to help generate interest in this year's competition, reaching its halfway mark. Climax comes with the annual WOTY awards dinner, Jan. 23, at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Winners in each field receive antique silver trophies to signify their high honor. The Bank of Georgia, headed by Joseph Birnie, is current sponsor of the event.

Mechanics of nominating a candidate are simple, Miss McDuffie said. Send a letter stating your nominee's contributions in one of the five fields to: Mrs. Floyd W. McRae Jr., board of directors secretary, 2081 Dellwood Dr., NW, Atlanta.

Organizations are encouraged to nominate their leading ladies, according to Mrs. John S. Knox, board member in charge of nominations.

"And so are individuals," she stressed.

All nominations go to the committee for study and final selection. Committee chairmen are: C. K. Liller, the arts; Jackson Drick Jr., business; J. Marshall Weaver, civic service; Eugene Patterson, education, and Granger Hansell, professions.

Each field has a five-man committee backing up the chairman and all 35 selectors are men.

ELIGIBLE

Candidates are eligible from the five counties comprising Metropolitan Atlanta. And women who work in Atlanta and reside outside the metropolitan area are eligible, according to Mrs. Knox.

Deadline for entries is Dec. 9.

While the selection committees are male-manned, the executive committee and board of directors are distaffers.

Miss McDuffie, Mrs. David C. Black Jr., Mrs. Berrien Moore Jr., Mrs. Henry D. Furniss and Mrs. Hughes Schroder compose the executive committee.

NOMINATIONS BEGIN TO COME FOR WOTY

ASK AMY

Wife Should Shun Friend Who Flirts With Husband

DEAR AMY LARKIN: My best girl friend got infatuated over my husband. She'd brag on his good looks and say she had picked the wrong man.

She'd come here flirting with my husband, would even sit in his lap. Well, I got a bait of this and tried to talk to my husband, and he said, "Oh, you're just a jealous wife. She doesn't mean anything by all that. She's just being gay."

So everytime I saw her coming I'd get madder and fuller on the inside. I felt like telling her never to come back, but I didn't. After nearly a year I got so mad I left, saying to myself if he enjoys her so much she can have him. But he came and got me back and said if I felt like that toward her I should have told her off.

I didn't see her for two weeks. Then she came over and mentioned about my leaving, and said, "Was I the cause of your leaving?" I said yes. I talked to her the best I could and told her that she should flirt with her own husband, not mine.

She said, "I'm sorry I caused you trouble." She asked me not to tell her husband, that he'd be furious at her, and she left.

Every day I think of what was going on, and I wish I could forget it. I'm not a jealous wife. I'm a wife still in love with her husband.

Not if the sight of her upsets you.

Many a husband has been too flattered by the attentions of a woman like that to recognize the dangers. He loves his wife, assumes that she and the other woman know it, enjoys the flirting and thinks it's harmless. You should have told her off long ago.

Now that it's over, don't ever mention it again. Try to make new friends among couples you both enjoy, and "be gay" with your husband the way she was.

DEAR AMY LARKIN: We have a large 11-room house, so we have plenty of room for my oldest brother and his wife. But there are five children besides him in the family, and since my father died six months ago my mother has been working. We are about to go broke.

This brother says he can't help pay bills because he has his own bills to pay—for nice clothes and things for him and his wife. Am I wrong to think he ought to help my poor mother out with the groceries, lights, water and all, since they live here and eat here?—WORRIED 15-YEAR OLD.

They should move out. If they stay they should pay. As two in a family of eight, their fair share would be one fourth of all the bills.

Perplexed by personal problems? Share them with Atlanta's Amy Larkin. Answers to your letters will appear twice weekly in the Constitution's Women Today section. Just write Amy Larkin, The Atlanta Constitution, P. O. Box 4114, Atlanta 2, Ga.

John Conte Releases Disc

By KATHRYN GRAYBURN

Constitution Society Editor

Kathryn

FROM HOLLYWOOD comes news that John Conte, stage and television personality, has just released his second platter, "La Luna Mia," backed by "Love Is Wonderful."

John is married to the former Ruth Collins of Atlanta. He and his beauteous wife, with their two small sons, often visit Mrs. Conte's mother, Mrs. Charles H. Collins on Riverview Drive.

Letters from Beverly Hills, Calif., reveal that the recording artist and his wife will leave Nov. 9 for a cruise to Hawaii.

Former Atlantan Is Honored

FROM ALLENTOWN, PA., comes news of another honor accorded Mrs. Evelyn Robbins, formerly of Atlanta. Mrs. Robbins, minister of music at Salem United Church of Christ in Allentown, has been listed in the second edition of "Who's Who of American Women."

Mrs. Robbins, a graduate of Agnes Scott College and the Juillard School of Music in New York, is the daughter of Mrs. Victor S. Wall and the late Dr. Victor S. Wall of Atlanta. Her brother, V. S. Wall Jr., lives in Brookhaven. The former Atlantan was minister of music at Peachtree Road Methodist Church here. Later, she served as organist and choir director at St. John's Methodist Church in New Rochelle, N.Y., and as a member of the faculty of Cedar Crest College. The gifted musician is a past dean of the American Guild of Organists.

Fashion Idea For Dieters

A CAREER GIRL may have started a fad by buying a new fall dress a size too small.

When she confided to her associates that she had purchased a size 12 instead of her regular size 14, they chorused, "But, how will you get in it!"

"By sticking to this diet and REALLY losing 10 pounds!"

GLIMPSED at the Atlanta Yacht Club luau: Mrs. Charles Chase in an exotic grass skirt, leading a terrifying green dragon made up of 10 children under boxes. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Bob Battle arriving incognito in sarongs and "store-bought hair." . . . Mrs. Franklin Gelzer looking alluring in a hula skirt . . . the entire Don Dutton family appearing in authentic Gob uniforms . . . the Bob Yapps, looking like a come-as-you-are couple wearing terry cloth sarongs . . . Mrs. Derek Peters receiving compliments on her sarong made of a tablecloth . . . the entire Angus Avard family in identical Hawaiian costumes . . . Mrs. Robert Crockett introducing a Mexican Muu Muu . . . Chris Jones, son of Commodore and Mrs. Delkin Jones, winning the Limbo dance contest . . . Al Cleveland playing the piano after the Combo had gone home.

SICK AND TIRED OF IT: Robert Long, a June graduate of Druid Hills High School, is a patient at Piedmont Hospital.

THE CHEROKEE TOWN CLUB will be the scene today for the luncheon at which Mrs. Gladys Kerlin will honor her niece, Patsy Morris. Patsy will marry Howard W. Cordle Jr. Saturday in the First Methodist Church of East Point.

MRS. THORWALD EROS JR., president of the Atlanta Junior League, and Mrs. Thomas E. Martin Jr., a member of the regional nominating committee, will leave Sept. 13 for Sea Island to attend the annual presidents' council for leagues in Region 5.

MR AND MRS. ALBERT T. EHLERS and Mr. and Mrs. John Thornton of Verdun have returned from Chicago, where they were entertained by former Atlantans, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Neal at their Lake Shore Drive home.

JEANETTE MARTIN, who reported to Minneapolis, Minn., for her new job as a stewardess with Northwest Orient Airlines, has been reassigned. She reported Thursday to Washington, D.C.

Questions and Answers

Q.: How can I kill the cockroaches in my kitchen?
A.: Brush Johnston's No-Roach on cabinets, baseboards, near sink—wherever you see these pests. The colorless, odorless coating kills roaches and ants, and stays effective for months.

Q.: Must I move dishes and food, as I do when I spray?
A.: No, you brush No-Roach just where you want it. No need to move dishes, or breathe harmful sprays. It is safe to use around children and pets.

Q.: I see bugs on my floors. How can I wax and kill bugs at the same time?
A.: Mix four ounces of No-Roach with 16 ounces (one pint) of liquid floor wax (your favorite brand). This is 1 part No-Roach to 4 parts wax. Apply as usual and buff lightly. Your floors will gleam, and any bug that walks across is doomed to die.

Q.: My dog has fleas. Can No-Roach help?
A.: Yes. Brush No-Roach where the dog sleeps. Ticks and fleas are most active at night, and the No-Roach coating will give him relief in about four nights. You can also brush No-Roach in his fur. This will not harm him.

Johnston's No-Roach:

Army Shifts Might to Berlin Line ---And Ex-Sgt. Paar Films It All

COMMANDS GIs

Jack Paar

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army moved in reinforcements Thursday to make sure that American TV cameras got a proper slant on activities at Friedrichstrasse, one of the restricted border crossings between East and West Berlin.

This has been the scene of several tense situations in the past three weeks. One day the U.S. Army sent three tanks and four weapons carriers there as a show of strength when an Army car was detained in East Berlin.

But the tanks were withdrawn last week, and guarding of the border point was left usually to six or eight soldiers.

Jack Paar, NBC-TV master of ceremonies who made it to sergeant in World War II, turned up with four cameras Thursday.

So did an array of Army brass and equipment.

There were seven jeeps, one armed with the new 106 recoilless rifle, another with loudspeaking equipment, several with machine guns

Two U.S. Army colonels appeared, with one lieutenant colonel, one major, one captain, two lieutenants and about 50 soldiers including an impressive array of sergeants. One squad drew up on the sidewalk for the filming. Others stood in a war-wrecked building overlooking the scene—in good range of the cameras.

It rained during much of the show, which will be presented in segments on Paar's show three nights next week.

Paar wandered around with his microphone pointing to the obstacles laid down by the Reds. He leaned on his jeep and finally sat in the middle of the street with actress Peggy Cass, talking into the microphones in the rain.

He interviewed several officers.

Integration Quiet In New Orleans

By the Associated Press

Six public schools in New Orleans, heavily guarded by police, admitted a dozen Negro children Thursday without disorder.

School officials earlier had indicated only two of the schools would be open to Negroes on the first day classes resumed after the summer holiday. The other four had been expected to wait until next week before starting desegregation.

Sixty policemen, with orders to ringed each of the six schools.

Two schools that admitted Negroes last year, McDonough No. 19 and the William Frantz school, also had been heavily guarded last year, but hecklers forced an almost complete boycott of the schools during the fall and spring.

One white child entered McDonogh Thursday with three Negro girls, breaking the boycott there. Sixteen white pupils entered Frantz, where a lone Negro first grader moved up to the second grade. Frantz had 14 white students at the end of the spring session.

Dallas schools functioned normally for the second day of integration with 18 Negro children attending eight formerly all-white schools. An anonymous threat to bomb the Roger Q. Mills school prompted a fire drill that sent children out of the building but no bomb was found.

Negroes in New Rochelle, N.Y., armed with a court order authorizing transfer of pupils from the predominately all-Negro Lincoln school sent 260 pupils to classes at other public schools. Negroes charged the Lincoln school district had been gerrymandered to make the school nearly all-Negro. The Court of Appeals upheld the transfers and the board of education has appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Blondes Sweeping Pageant

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Two tall blondes from Utah and Arkansas won awards Thursday night in the second round of preliminary competition in the Miss America Pageant.

WORKING GIRL

Miss Utah, 19, showed in pantomine a day in the life of a working girl. She used a clever outfit which converted from nightgown to business dress to evening gown.

Miss Arkansas, whose measurements are 35-24-35, wore a white swimsuit as she walked down the 120-foot long runway before 7,157 persons.

Both Miss Utah and Miss Arkansas are listed as 5 feet 9 inches tall, but Miss Anderson said she actually is a half inch taller than that.

BLONDE SWEEP

The winners joined two other blondes as victors in the preliminary events.

Miss Donehoo Dies; Member of Pioneer Family

Miss Florence Donehoo, a descendant of a pioneer Atlanta family and a lifelong resident of the city, died Thursday in a private hospital. She lived at 1235 North Decatur Road.

Miss Donehoo had been a charter member of the Haygood Memorial Methodist Church and was active in church work. She was a member of the church's Young at Heart Group and was a teacher in the Sunday School.

For many years she was a milliner and designer of hats and was part owner of the Flo-Anne Hat Shop on Virginia Avenue.

Funeral services will be Saturday morning at Spring Hill with Dr. J. L. Snead and the Rev. Henry H. Jones officiating. Burial will be in Marvin Cemetery.

Survivors include four sisters, Mrs. J. O. Bennett, Mrs. Cora Bone, Mrs. Douglas Barbour and Miss Margaret Donehoo, all of Atlanta.

Here's How
Wm. F. Buchanan
Jim Aldredge

With four personal friends running for Mayor, I shall vote for Jim Aldredge.

(1). He is experienced in spending tax money for the best interest of all. He, and the other County Commissioners have budgeted twenty-two million dollars for the county this year. The budget of Atlanta is thirty million.

(3). He has never voted to raise taxes.

(4). He has never helped invent any new taxes.

IN HIS LAST RACE WITH OPPOSITION HE RECEIVED
62,000 VOTES
of the 72,000 votes cast.

He is experienced, economical, and progressive.

I believe Atlanta can WIN with JIM!

RHYME A DAY

By OLLIE REEVES

"An amazing number of murders and other crimes committed by children under 12 years of age indicates a need for firmer discipline."—Article quote and the understatement of the decade.

In our stubbornness we cling . . . To traditions of the past . . . Acting as if everything . . . In the world was made to last . . . That is why the young and old . . . Always are so far apart . . . For the young are quick and bold . . . And the old are slow to start.

Once the family was One . . . All for one and one for all . . . When the daily tasks were done . . . And the night began to fall . . . Somewhere around nine o'clock . . . All the sheep were in the fold . . . Every member of the flock . . . Young and in between, and old.

Now the fence is broken down . . . And the lambs have gone astray . . . They are out and "on the town" . . . and there's "you know what" to pay . . . While the shepherd sits at ease . . . When he should be hard as nails . . . And place the lambs across his knees . . . And firmly twist their little tails.

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♣

The bidding was reasonable. North's hand was a little too strong for an immediate jump raise, the upper limit of which is 16 points, so he temporized with a bid of two diamonds. After South's two-heart rebid however, North gave a jump preference in spades. When South tested for slam possibilities by cuing the ace of clubs, North took charge and leaped to six spades.

West made the natural lead of the jack of clubs. Dummy's queen was covered by East's king and won by declarer. He cashed the ace of diamonds, felling East's jack, and crossed to dummy with the king of hearts in order to attempt an immediate discard on the king of diamonds. It was frustrating when East ruffed with the deuce of spades, but South overruffed with the four and tried again. He led a heart to the ace and then the queen of diamonds. East ruffed with the five and South again over-trumped with the seven.

Declarer led a third round of hearts and West had to discard for, if he ruffed in with the ace of spades, declarer would let go of dummy's remaining club. The heart was trumped in dummy and back came the ten of diamonds which East greeted with his last trump and South once more over-ruffed with the queen. Now only the ace of trumps was outstanding. It was a simple matter for declarer to lead another heart and ruff in dummy, dropping the queen and establish South's ten. A diamond ruff put declarer in to lead the good heart and discard dummy's club.

The defense was, therefore, held to one trick in the form of the ace of spades.

Voters Need Facts About Aldermanic Candidates, Slotin Charges

Voters cannot become INFORMED by signs and ads which merely repeat the candidate's name. The following is one of a series of objective facts about Phillip Slotin, candidate for Alderman, Sixth Ward, Position One.

(Please clip for memo for Sept. 13 election)

Phillip Slotin

Why Are Informed Voters "Votin'" For Slotin?

PHILLIP SLOTIN has the best basic background and ability to make a good alderman. He has a degree in business from the University of Georgia, a degree in law from Emory University, and nine years experience in the general practice of law. PHILLIP SLOTIN'S voluntary lie detector test press conference scientifically proved that he is sincere, confident and courageous in his desire to inform the voters of his honesty, his qualifications, and his dedication to represent the best interest of the people. It scientifically proved that Phillip Slotin has always in his personal and professional dealings, been a man of honesty and integrity.

PHILLIP SLOTIN is the only candidate in the race to propose a solution to Atlanta's biggest problem . . . the County Unit System. Phillip Slotin pledges that when elected, he will continue his attack on the County Unit System with his bold, but practical solution to Atlanta's biggest problem.

PHILLIP SLOTIN'S opponent (Blanchard) has repeatedly used his position in office to further his own selfish real estate deals in reckless disregard for the best interest of the city.

PHILLIP SLOTIN has demonstrated at every opportunity his dedication to fight bigotry, racial hatred, and prejudice.

PHILLIP SLOTIN, with youthful enthusiasm, courage, intelligence, and integrity, will meet the challenges of the new urban frontiers . . . urban renewal, racial harmony, open schools, more parks and recreation programs, effective zonings, better planning, completion of expressways, rapid transit, more jobs, new city facilities, and better political relationship with the state.

If this is the type of candidate you want to represent you, clip this article and discuss it with your friends, neighbors and fellow employees so that they will know why INFORMED voters are "Votin'" for Slotin.

$218,000 OWED

State After Tax Debts Of 7,500

The taxpayers owe a total of $218,000, said F. L. Dillard, director of the unit.

The income tax unit received about 30,000 such "no-money" returns this year, but payments now have been collected on all but 7,500. Many taxpayers thought the state was supposed to send them a bill for taxes owed, although the returns specifically direct that checks or money orders are to be attached.

Britain Fines 48 Protesting U.S. Atom Tests

LONDON (UPI) — Forty-eight anti-nuclear demonstrators who staged a sit-down protest near the American Embassy Wednesday night were fined from $2.80 to $4.20 each in Magistrate's Court Thursday.

The 48 were among 159 ban-the-bomb squatters arrested by police as they approached the embassy to protest the American decision to resume nuclear testing.

One demonstrator, Mrs. Dorothy Oliver, brought a laugh to the sober courtroom atmosphere when she said that as the mother of two children she had washed 7,000 diapers in the past three years "and I don't want that to be wasted in a nuclear war."

Magistrate Clyde Wilson replied, "I hope your observation will have some effect on Mr. Khrushchev." He fined her $2.80.

Phil Hill is the runner-up for the world drivers' championship thus far. But he stands a good chance of bringing the title home if he wins at Monza—where he holds the lap record.

WORLD CHAMPION?

Sunday, when a quiet American and a German nobleman duel for the world race-drivers' title, both will use Super Shell gasoline for top performance

The grind of world championship racing is the toughest test of top performance that gasoline and motor oil can get. There has been an absolutely free choice of gasoline and oil in all drivers' championship races held this year. In four of the six races held so far, the winning car was powered with Super Shell. And lubricated with Shell X-100 Motor Oil.

Read why these Shell products have been selected for the cars that will start as favorites in Sunday's big race at Monza, Italy—and how this race might help bring the championship to America for the first time.

THE 1961 world race-drivers' championship may well be decided Sunday, when the Italian Grand Prix is run at Monza.

The man out front in the year-long competition is a steel-nerved, 32-year-old Count named Wolfgang von Trips. His closest rival is Phil Hill, 34, a quiet, determined Californian who still stands a chance of becoming the first American to win the world race-drivers' championship.*

All year long, both men have been using Super Shell gasoline to get top performance from their powerful Ferrari cars. And both their cars have been lubricated by Shell X-100® Motor Oil. The significance of this becomes crystal clear when you consider these facts:

1. The choice of gasoline and motor oil has been absolutely open in all races held for the 1961 drivers' championship.

2. In four drivers' championship races out of six, the winning car was powered by Super Shell and lubricated by Shell X-100 Motor Oil. (Note: lubricated exclusively with Shell X-100, Ferrari cars won the sports car manufacturer championships in 1956-57-58-60—and have already cinched it for this year.)

3. A world championship race is as tough a test of top performance as any gasoline or motor oil is ever likely to get.

The gasoline must deliver enough power to accelerate at speeds over 100 miles per hour, must resist high-speed knock which can damage a piston, must fire instantly after pit stops to save precious seconds, must work to prevent stalls.

"Pump" gasoline used

The gasoline that will go into Phil Hill's and Wolfgang von Trips' Ferraris on Sunday is everyday "pump" gasoline. Nothing special about it—except that it's Super Shell.

If you want top performance from your car, have your Shell dealer fill your tank with Super Shell. It promises top performance because it contains no fewer than nine ingredients, each with its own important job to do. Here's a quick run-down on what those jobs are.

Ingredient #2 is "cat-cracked" gasoline for power with a purr. It's the super-octane result of 900-degree heat and catalytic action.

Ingredient #3 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knock. It helps control combustion, so that pistons get a firm, even push rather than a hard knock.

Ingredient #5 is Butane for quick starts. It is so anxious to get going, Shell stores it under pressure 400 feet below ground.

Ingredient #6 is Pentane mix for fast warm-ups. It is made by tearing petroleum apart, much as you split kindling.

Ingredient #7 is an anti-icer to help check cold-weather stalling. It is added whenever the temperature is likely to be less than 45 degrees.

Ingredient #9 is Platformate for extra mileage. Shell uses eight million dollars' worth of platinum catalyst to make this super-energy ingredient.

*For Hill to win the world championship, he will almost certainly have to win at Monza on Sunday. Here's how the scoring works. In each race that counts for the championship, the winner gets 9 points, runner-up 6 points, third place 4 points, and so forth. The championship is awarded on the basis of a driver's best five races. Von Trips now leads with 33 points. Hill is in second place with 29 points. The driver in third place is well behind the leaders with 21 points.

PREVIEWING THE SEC

Gators Hope to Cash In with Go-for-Broke Offense

OUTLAR

★ Sports Editor ★

GAINESVILLE, Fla.—Armed with the "best" backfield and the greenest line in the Southeastern Conference, Ray Graves, a football graduate of conservative Tennessee and Georgia Tech, will shoot the works this fall with a go-for-broke offense at Florida.

Little Larry Libertore and his playmates added a dash of offensive fireworks last year. But it was a rock-ribbed defense, penetrated by only one foe for more than one TD, which catapulted the Gators to their winningest season ever. Including the Gator Bowl triumph over Baylor, Florida racked up nine triumphs, lost twice and came within a half game of finishing its first season atop the SEC standings.

Outlar

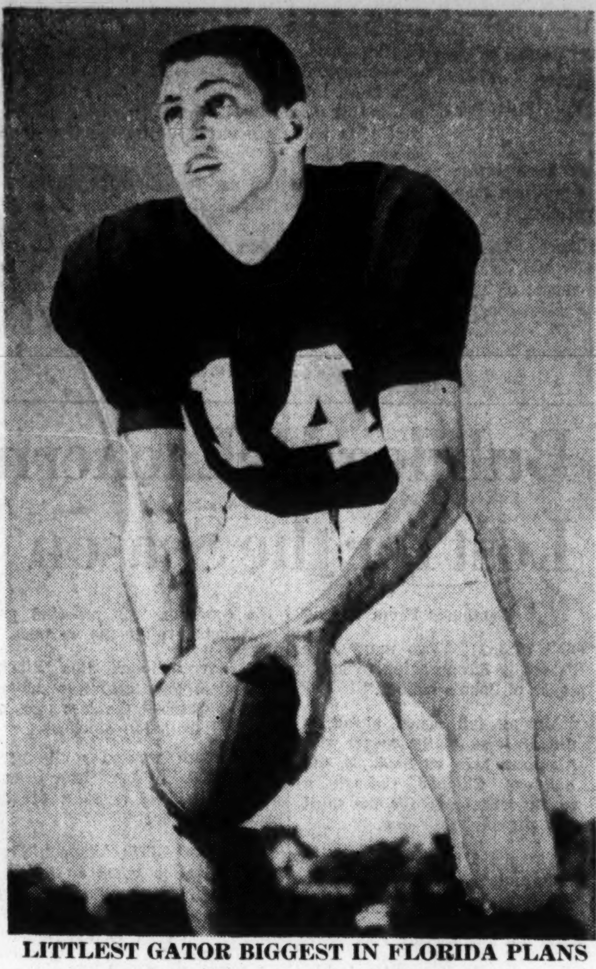
Nine starters who started the fabulous 1960 season won't start against Clemson here Sept. 23. Only the exciting mighty mite, Libertore, and bruising tackle and Capt. Jim Beaver are holdovers from the original No. 1 unit.

Despite heavy losses and the tale of Albert, however, the Gators should field one of the most exciting offensive teams in Gator annals. The attack is reinforced by Billy Cash, among the most talented college field goal kickers.

Albert, real live Gator mascot, was the innocent victim of a daffy prank which has cost his namesakes one of their most promising performers. According to the story, Dick Skelly, Bob Hoover and Tommy Cash decided to enliven a dull evening by chopping on Albert's tale. They were apprehended before Albert became a bobtailed gator and placed on probation.

Hoover and Cash were later declared eligible, but Skelly remains on probation. Florida coaches are mum on the topic, but Jacksonville alumni aren't. They've asked everyone from the governor on down to find out why home-town boy Skelly remained on probation after the other attackers of Albert got off. Meanwhile, poor Albert has undeservedly become the most unpopular gator in the history of Gatorland.



LITTLEST GATOR BIGGEST IN FLORIDA PLANS

Larry Libertore Boomed by Graves as All-America

—Dodd Set a Pitching Record Last Fall

Though Skelly was rated the best all-round back on the squad, Florida still will operate with what may be the outstanding offensive force in the league.

Libertore, halfbacks Lindy Infante and Hoover and fullback Don Goodman, who won a prolonged summer academic bout, are backed by Bobby Dodd Jr., Bruce Starling, a transfer from Air Force, Ron Stoner and Cecil Ewell. There's an overflow of talent for fullback. Paul Vargecko, staging a strong comeback as a senior, would be a starter at several SEC stations.

"We have real fine backs," said Graves, perched atop the tall practice tower on a recent afternoon. "We'll miss Skelly, of course, but I believe we'll be able to move the ball.

"I've told everyone that we're going all out on offense this year," continued the man considered one of the finest defensive coaches in the land. "We'll have to gamble to win. We just don't have the experience in the line."

Vital Statistics

1960 Record: 9-2 (including Gator Bowl victory.)

1961 Schedule: Sept. 23 Clemson, Sept. 30 Florida State, Oct. 6 at Tulane, Oct. 14 at Rice, Oct. 21 at Vanderbilt, Oct. 28 LSU, Nov. 4 at Georgia Tech. Nov. 11 Georgia at Jax, Nov. 25 at Auburn, Dec. 2 Miami.

Lettermen Returning: 21; Lost, 16.

Coach Ray Graves' Lifetime Record: 9-2.

No college coach speaks in more glowing terms of his quarterback than Graves does when he discusses Libertore.

"He's uncanny," said Graves. "You just had to see some of the things he did for us last year to believe it. Yes, I certainly do think he belongs on the all-America checklist."

One of the things Libertore did last fall was race 66 yards on the first snap to get Florida off to a running start in the 13-10 victory over LSU in Baton Rouge, the longest TD run from scrimmage against the Bengals.

Statistic-wise Bobby Dodd Jr. was even more impressive as a pitcher than Libertore was a runner. Dodd established a Florida accuracy mark by hitting on 30 of 55 aerials for a 54.5 percentage.

—Thirty of 41 Linemen Are Rookies

Beaver and 245-pound Floyd Dean are quality tackles, but only one other tackle has played on the varsity. Starter Larry Travis and third-stringer Charley Gill are lettermen at guards. Jack Thompson, 190-pound soph from Savannah, who had earned Graves' applause and a starting job at right guard, reinjured a trick knee in a Wednesday scrimmage and may be lost for the season. Junior Bruce Culpepper, held in high esteem by the Gator staff, will be backed by another junior, Tom Kelley, recently shifted from end.

If the rookie line comes through, the Gators could be even more surprising this year than last. Since what's up front means so much, however, a 6-4 season should be considered a success in Gainesville.

YANKS' MARIS HOLDS UP SYMBOLIC NO. 55

Slugger Hit 55th Homer Thursday Against Cleveland

Bombers Move Nine in Front

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Maris walloped his 55th home run Thursday night, joining Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg and Hack Wilson as the only major league sluggers to hit that many, as the New York Yankees defeated Cleveland 7-3 for their eighth straight success and a run-away, nine-game lead in the American League race.

Maris, Mantle at Bat

MARIS

MANTLE

Maris, stepping up his pursuit of Ruth's record of 60 homers with his second in two games, stayed seven games ahead of the Babe's record pace of 1927. The blond, crew-cut clouter needs only six in 14 games to break the record within the limit of 154 team decisions set by baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

While Maris was 3-for-3, driving in three runs with his solo homer, a bunt single and a sacrifice fly, teammate Mickey Mantle failed to add to his home run total of 51. The Mick had one hit, a double, in four trips and drove in two runs, but fell two games behind Ruth's pace.

With M&M driving in five runs between them and right-hander Ralph Terry winning his 13th with a five-hit pitching performance, the Yankees reduced their pennant-clinching magic number to 14 over second place Detroit.

The Tigers lost their seventh in a row at Boston, 8-4, and any combination of Yankee victories and Detroit defeats totaling 14 will put away the pennant for New York.

Richards Inks Pact With Colts

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Paul Richards signed a unique three-year contract as general manager of the Houston Colts Thursday and said his No. 1 prpblem is the immediate evaluation of all National League players.

"Our plans right now are revolving almost 100 per cent around the selection of players from the National League pool," Richards said. "We've got to devise a method for choosing those players. It's not going to be easy."

The Colts and the New York Mets move into an expanded National League next year and will have a chance the day after the World Series ends to purchase players from the eight existing clubs.

"I'm starting to work on evaulation today," Richards said after signing a three-year contract that reportedly calls for $60,000 a year.

The contract frees the former Baltimore field manager of all front office problems such as ticket sales and stadium maintenance.

"My job is exclusively baseball," he said. "There are similar contracts in the major leagues today but none exactly like this one."

McEachern Lost To Bulldog Squad

By JACK WILLIAMS

Constitution Sports Writer

ATHENS—Georgia football received its most severe jolt of the Johnny Griffith regime Thursday when it was learned that star end John McEachern has been lost for the season.

An examination revealed that the junior from Tallahassee, Fla., tore a ligament in his leg in a Wednesday scrimmage and must undergo an operation.

"It's a terrible blow," Griffith told reporters on Ag Hill. "We had counted on John being our No. 1 right end. When he was hurt, we didn't think for a minute it was this serious."

An Atlanta doctor will perform the operation Saturday morning and it is expected that McEachern will have to wear a cast on his leg for more than a month.

"We're not very deep anywhere," Griffith said, "so we

REDSKINS, PACKERS AT COLUMBUS

STEELERS, BEARS TANGLE AS EXHIBITION SLATES CLOSE

CHICAGO (AP)—It's the beginning of the end of the National Football League's exhibition season (Friday) when the Pittsburgh Steelers visit the ailing Chicago Bears for the 16th annual Armed Forces benefit game.

The other 12 NFL clubs draw the curtain on their exhibition schedules Friday night or Sunday. Regular season play opens Sept. 17.

Pittsburgh and Chicago, both with 2-2 records, are eyeing this Armed Forces benefit affair in Chicago with a high degree of caution. Each is equally anxious to wind up its pre-season fireworks on a victory note.

Coach Buddy Parker of the Steelers has paid tribute to the Bears by saying the Bruins "have jelled." Billy Wade seems to have solved their quarterbacking, and they have come up with a couple of young running backs who really can turn it on.

"Our scouts, who have been following them since the start of the pre-season games, say the Bears have been improving weekly, but against the Minnesota Vikings (Bears won over Minnesota, 30-7) last week, they really worked as a unit."

Bears Coach George Halas, the old professional football maestro, admits Chicago has progressed steadily and keeps showing improvement but quickly adds:

"We still have quite a way to go. Our quarterbacking is solid. Our offense is gradually attaining the smoothness of execution needed to be effective. Our defensive line is as strong as ever. Our defensive secondary, which lost three veteran deep backs, is improving."

Halas notes that the "Steelers have better balanced personnel than a year ago when they tied us in this Armed Forces game 21-21."

Besides their victory over the Vikings, the Bears tripped Washington 29-13 and bowed to the champion Philadelphia Eagles 38-10 and to Green Bay 24-14. Pittsburgh nipped Baltimore 24-20 and downed St. Louis 24-14. The Steelers lost to Detroit 17-14 and were clobbered by the Cleveland Browns 38-6.

The league's two undefeated teams, Philadelphia and Green Bay, both see action Saturday night, but not against each other. The Eagles tangle with St. Louis at Hershey, Pa., and the Packers with Washington at Columbus, Ga. In other games Saturday night, San Francisco faces Dallas at Sacramento, Calif., and Detroit invades Cleveland. Sunday activity finds Los Angeles at Minnesota and New York and Baltimore opposing each other at New Haven, Conn.

No Kick Coming, Says Dodd, After Lothridge FG Showing

Ailing FBs Biggest Worry

By AL THOMY

It is less than confidential information that Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech believes football is only half a game without the foot. He had no kicks Thursday.

There was reason. On Wednesday, in the first bona fide scrimmage of the fall, sophomore quarterback Billy Lothridge of Gainesville kicked a 43-yard field goal, and some say only the proximity of the posts kept it from being a 53-yard effort.

"That," said Dodd while observing Thursday's period of fundamentals and group training, "was the brightest spot of the scrimmage for me. What was encouraging was the length and accuracy of the kick.

"I have said it before and I say it again, every team needs a proficient field goal kicker. It is an integral part of the offense and, believe me, it will figure in a lot of football games this fall. That, I can't stress too much."

All of which brought up the subject of offense.

"Our offense is ahead of our attack at this stage last year, and for good reason. Fellows such as Stan Gann, Billy Williamson, Chick Graning and Mike McNames are a year older and a year more experienced, and more familiar with our system and plays than they were last year. They have maturity.

"On the other hand, we have made changes in the defense that will take time to solidify. There are certain things I am concerned about in defense, but progress has been satisfactory."

While Dodd is not po' mouthing, he declines to agree with those who predict a championship future for this edition of the Yellow Jackets.

"What I said before still goes," he said Thursday. "This team will be a lot like last year's—spirited, exciting—but I think we can win anywhere from a minimum of two games to a maximum of seven.

BILLY LOTHRIDGE
Booming Ball High, Long

"Very few people do not concur that our schedule is one of the toughest in the country."

Right now the Jackets are trying to get their fullbacks off the medical rosters. Second unit offensive operator Larry Lafkowitz sprained a knee in Wednesday's scrimmage and faces a recuperation period of four weeks, or more. No. 3 FB Lee Reid sustained a wrenched neck, but should be good and healthy in a few days, and, of course, Jon Martin went out earlier with a pinched nerve.

To fill these vacancies, Dodd moved up junior Mike O'Neill and soph Ray Mendheim, who, more than likely, will be redshirted this season.

FLAT FACTS: Linebacker Raymond Holt is also resting out a neck injury suffered in Wednesday's scrimmage, and starting guard Dave Watson is favoring a back sprain picked up in the knocking. Neither case is serious . . . Thursday's drill consisted of fundamentals and polishing up work, and Friday's will be the same .

JOHN McEACHERN

Moving full speed ahead in preparations for the opener with Alabama here on Sept. 23, the Bulldogs whipped through a rough scrimmage for the third straight day Thursday.

A highlight of the session was the brilliant quarterback play of Jake Saye, the junior from Rutledge who is pushing Dale Williams for the starting spot.

Saye made several slashing runs, once bowling over three freshmen defenders at the goal. He also handed off once neatly to halfback Billy Knowles who scampered 20 yards on the longest offensive play of the day.

Griffith had the second team running against the freshmen and the fourth team trying its luck on offense against the No. 1 unit. Jimmy Guy, the freshman whiz from Waycross, was a tower of strength throughout the workout from his linebacking post.

The work got so fast and furious, several players were knocked out of action. Reserve center Rooks Boynton of Adel suffered a lick on the head and had to be helped from the field. His condition was reported as satisfactory after the workout.

Regular halfback Don Blackburn of Smyrna also was shaken up and watched the last part of the drill from the sidelines.

BULLDOG BITS: Although Saye has the inside track to punting duties, fourth string quarterback George Cheek of Eastanollee was more impressive in this department Thursday. . . . Backfield coach Charlie Trippi moaned that Georgia has shown very little offensive punch. "One thing about it," he said, "We aren't liable to lose many footballs in the stands 'cause we aren't going to be kicking many extra points . . ." Griffith said he still ranks his quarterbacks in this order: Dale Williams, Saye and Larry Rakestraw. "If we started tomorrow, Williams would be on the No. 1 unit," he said. . . . The sensation of early drills, fullback Mark Faircloth, continued to be impressive as a runner. But he had a poor day punting during the kicking drill . . . Halfback Billy Jackson remained on the injured list along with end Ray Maddox, who'll move into the third unit with McEachern on the sidelines.

KENT, HUNT LIGHT TIGER DRILL

Special to The Constitution

AUBURN, Ala. — Passing of Mailon Kent and Bobby Hunt, Auburn's Lanett quarterback punch, highlighted a Thursday scrimmage described as "not outstanding" by head coach Ralph Jordan.

"We are not in shape and need to spend a great deal of time on some fundamental things," he said. "Such points as timing, avoiding useless penalties and so on are in need of work."

Kent found Bobby Foret for one TD pitch, Dave Edwards for a pair and George Rose for another in a scrimmage against the 5th and 6th teams.

Hunt connected for scores with Don Downs, Sammy Miller and Bobby Lee. Also, Hunt had the day's longest run, a 35-yard TD jaunt early in the day.

"We'll have a long scrimmage Saturday which will be closed," said Jordan after practice. "Then, perhaps, we'll begin to get a better idea of just where some of these boys will rank.

"There will be some switches and advancements early next week and Saturday's scrimmage will give us many of the answers we're looking for at the moment."

Pirates Batter Cubs In Big Third, 7-5

CHICAGO (AP) — Pittsburgh blended five hits and a walk with four Chicago errors to score five runs in the third inning Thursday and went on to defeat the Cubs, 7-5, in the season's final game between the teams.

This victory, the Pirates' second of the three game series, produced an 11-11 standoff for the year against the Cubs.

In the fumble derby Ernie Banks was charged with two errors on a bobble and wide throw, Richie Ashburn drew the third error on an errant peg past third and rookie first baseman Moe Morhardt, playing his first major league game, drew the fourth error on a fumble of a Banks throw trying for a double play.

Laver, Hard Win Easily Over Crawford, Ramirez

Reed Given Little Hope

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Queenslander Rod Laver and Californian Darlene Hard were the favorites in a hurry to keep their date with destiny Friday in the National Tennis Championships.

Laver, a carrot-topped, bandy-legged left-hander who is the newest champion to come off the unending Australian assembly line, quickly disposed of Chris Crawford, the upset hope from Piedmont, Calif., 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 and entered the men's quarter-finals.

Miss Hard, 25-year-old pre-medical student from Pomona College, led the women's advance guard into the semifinals with a crisp, businesslike 6-3, 6-1 triumph over Yola Ramirez of Mexico.

The next opponent for the defending champion from Montebello, Calif., is Margaret Smith, a 20-year-old Australian girl who keeps in shape by lifting weights. Miss Smith upset fourth-seeded Christine Truman of Britain 8-10, 6-4, 6-3 a reversal of the Wimbledon result.

Four Americans, none very potent, were left in the men's championship which has been an Australian monopoly since 1956.

They are Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., upset winner over Chuck McKinley; Jon Douglas of Santa Monica, Calif., Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn and Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md. Dell, a law graduate from Yale University, advanced with a 7-9, 6-3, 6-2, 8-6 victory over dark horse John Sharpe of Edinburg, Tex.

Dell's outlook becomes more grim. Friday he plays the quick catlike Laver, who appears unbeatable. Holmberg goes against the Australian champion, Roy Emerson; Reed throws his unorthodox stuff at Mexico's Rafael Osuna, who upset sixth-seeded Bob Mark of Australia 6-3, 6-4, 8-6, and Douglas meets the winner of the match between England's Mike Sangster and Mexico's Antonio Palafox.

Sangster was leading 21-19, 8-7 when the match was halted by darkness.

Crawford, who suffered a slight ankle sprain in practice Wednesday and played with a taped right foot, was no match for Laver, who reeled off five straight games before most of the 4,500 spectators had settled in their seats.

Bosox Keep Tigers On Skid Row, 8-4

BOSTON (AP)—A broken bat single by Boston rookie Chuck Schilling sent the stumbling Detroit Tigers to their seventh straight defeat Thursday 8-4 after Frank Malzone hit a three-run homer.

There were two out in the sixth when Jim Pagliaroni walked and Monbo beat out a bunt prior to Schilling's fast chopper up the middle.

Al Kaline did his best to drive the Tigers out of their slump which has sent them to defeat in nine of their last 10 starts.

Kaline hit his 18th homer, with the bases empty, doubled, singled twice and scored twice.

Boston's big inning was the third, aided by Tiger first baseman Norm Cash who had driven in one of two Detroit runs in the opening frame.

Orioles Explode, Dump Senators, 6-3

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore exploded for five runs in the second inning Thursday night as the Orioles defeated the Washington Senators 6-3.

Milt Pappas, winning his third straight and sixth in his last eight starts, now has a record of 12-7. The losing pitcher was rookie Carl Bouldin, who worked 1⅓ innings. It was his only decision of the year.

MARIS: CHANCES FOR RECORD SAME

NEW YORK (AP)—"My chances of breaking the record are the same as they were before," Roger Maris of the Yankees said Thursday after he hit his 55th home run of the season—five short of Babe Ruth's record 60—against the Cleveland Indians.

"I don't know what my chances are," he said. "I don't know whether I can break it.

"Dick Stigman and the others were moving the ball around on me but they were around the plate," he said. "I'm not gonna take any strikes. If it's over, I'm gonna swing at it."

Maris dropped a drag bunt for a single in the first inning, driving in Tony Kubek from third base—sacrificing a chance for a home run to get the run in from third.

"I was up there to get the run in," he said. "That was my job."

CHATTAHOOCHEE TROUT PROJECT TRIBUTE TO 'DOERS'

By CHARLES ELLIOTT
Constitution Outdoor Columnist

Now it can be told—since everyone knows about it anyway. For a long time it was sort of hush-hush—well, sort of. But you can't keep a secret like that very long, especially where fishermen are involved.

Charles Elliott

I can't find out who originated the idea of planting trout below the Lake Lanier Dam on the Chattahoochee. It's a unique situation when not a single soul will bestow upon himself the credit for promoting a popular and successful project. For when such a venture exceeds all expectations you'll usually find a dozen guys standing in line to be congratulated. And as you know, if it goes the other way, they are most difficult to locate.

I am acquainted with a lot of trout fishermen who thought that since two fine trout rivers are the principal source of Lanier's water, the icy discharge pouring through the Buford Dam turbines might create some top trout waters. They cited as similar situations the famous trout fisheries in such rivers as the White, below Bull Shoals Dam, and half a dozen TVA lakes. I heard it discussed, took part in the discussions, but most of us gave it lip service only. And sat back to wait until someone else accomplished what we merely talked about.

Whether Don Pfitzer of the River Basin Study, Howard Zellars, with the Game and Fish Commission, or Ed Scruggs, officially unattached, but one of our most ardent and ingenious trouters, took the first step to establish the cold water species below Buford Dam, no one will say. There were other people in on the project, too, since it had to be given official sanction.

But somebody went to the trouble to take water temperatures for a year below the dam to determine that even during the hottest months the river would support the three species of trout occurring in these latitudes. The refrigerated stream was found suitable for a good many miles below the dam.

The first trout planted were purchased by a group of Cracker sportsmen. Some 36 fishermen kicked in 50 bucks each and the original stocking of 12,000 rainbows was purchased from private sources. This was later supplemented by 100,000 trout from state hatcheries.

The fellows responsible for this job kept it to themselves. The few news hounds who smelled out the story—these writer folks are always poking around where they're not supposed to be—agreed to help keep it quiet until the trout could get established. For hatchery trout are like people who've never had to shift for themselves. They must learn to compete in a wild, new environment of shifting currents, uncertain food supplies and strange predators. Some make it and some don't. Those which do survive, over a period of months, learn to take care of themselves and grow into sporty game fish.

During most of the 24 hours the Chattahoochee below Buford Dam is a cold, turbulent river, too swift and too deep to wade, with treacherous potholes in the shoals. When the gates are shut, during short periods of the day, the river is placid and shallow enough to fish afoot. So far, we haven't heard of any angler being trapped by the rising river when the powerhouse was put in operation again. I hope we won't. I can think of more pleasant situations than being stranded in the middle of the river with an icy torrent of water cascading down on me.

Our hat is off to the guys who made this new trout fishery possible. We're lucky to have at least a few fellows around here with muscles somewhere besides in their jaws.

Drag Star Scheduled For AIR

Karamesines To Drive Here

An unprecedented demonstration of raw nerve and brute speed will be presented by Chicago, Ill. drag-racing ace Chris Karamesines Saturday, September 16, on the Atlanta International Raceway.

Powered with a giant fuel combination of nitromethane and methyl alcohol, the Chicagoan's supercharged 200-mile an hour skeletonized dragster is scheduled to roar down the main straightaway of the Atlanta speedway, trailing smoke from burning tires.

As the car reaches the end of the short straight, Karamesines plans to release a parachute brake which is to be packed and hung outside the rear of the cockpit 'roll cage'.

Ribbon-type parachutes are made specially for dragsters and must be repacked by their owners after each run. The parachute brake provides a great safety factor.

Karamesines will make his exhibition run between the Saturday afternoon qualifying time trials of the NASCAR late model stock cars.

The Preparade

The 'I'll Cry Tomorrow' Grid Coaches Often Do—Right After First Game

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

The personality of a Georgia high school football coach often has more bearing upon how his team is rated in pre-season speculation than how many big, strong, fleet athletes he has at his beck and call.

Roberts

This is so partially because most of the sports writers gathering information and writing stories about the more than 250 elevens in papers all over the state are young and impressionable—and some of the veteran coaches are cagey, clever and talk with tongue in cheek.

Some coaches say just what they believe. Some, for the sake of morale and in the interest of building confidence at their own schools, give a reporter the sweetness and light spiel and take the "I'll cry tomorrow" attitude.

Still others would rather open practice without jerseys and headgears than without a mountain-high stack of crying towels for use when reporters come around.

This was brought to mind forcefully again this spring when sunny-dispositioned Dan Kennerly bubbled into print with a statement that he didn't see how his O'Keefe team could lose a game all season. Boyd Odom's Bass Warriors, led by brilliant Joel Cooper, showed nice-guy Dan how in last week's opener, 26-0.

Lou Loncaric, then head coach at Marist, felt the same chagrin a year ago when he announced his Cadets expected to roll up a 10-0 won-lost record and then saw them downed by Westminster, Decatur, R. E. Lee, Athens, Southwest DeKalb and Avondale.

This sort of thing is nothing new, of course. For back in the early 1940s, Allen Shi, then head coach at Tech High, announced he expected to own the finest line in GIAA circles and that he imagined he had a championship team on his hands. A week later, Asheville, N.C. High, spearheaded by All-America-to-be Charlie Justice, riddled Smithie defenses for over 30 points and a lop-sided victory.

Bobby Dodd's success with the optimistic approach at Georgia Tech and Sid Scarborough's urging his City League coaches to be "positive thinkers" have swelled the ranks of the "we expect to do real good society" in the last decade.

But don't think all disciples of "Weeping Wally" Butts and other advocates of tear-jerking have vanished from the earth or have adopted "Jesus Wants Me For a Sunbeam" as a theme song.

So long as Oliver Hunnicutt is at LaGrange and Wright Bazemore at Valdosta, the Coaches' Society is certain to have good balance between pessimism and optimism.

Bazemore, with almost two decades of constant football success behind him, can have a young writer crying in sympathy with him within seconds after meeting him. He has cried "Wolf" so effectively and so often that veteran writers go right ahead and pick Valdosta as the team to beat even on those few occasions when Bazemore doesn't have the horses to win the race.

Hunnicutt, who has a little Frank Howard in him, will have you believe it is a major achievement when "these pore, scrawny little ole LaGrange boys" beat Chitlin' Switch High, Tubby Walton's alma mammy.

We never could figure out whether "Honey" is a good old country boy who really does make silk purses out of sows' ears or a city slicker educated by a con man.

In the days when Shorty Doyal was building great teams at Boys High, he followed the Bazemore-Hunnicutt style of cat-and-mousing with newsmen. After we came to know the routine, we'd stop Doyal right in the middle of his first sentence—"We lost 28 lettermen, including 17 linemen and. . . . "

"Don't tell me who you lost, Shorty, we'd grin. "Just tell me who you've got back." (We just can't feel sorry for a guy who lost 28 players but has two All-Southern backs and three all-state linemen returning.)

When Scarborough coached at Tech High, he was a realist—laid the facts on the line as he saw them at the moment, like Selby Buck at Lanier and J. E. DeVaughn (later) at Brown.

Kennerly, Loncaric and other "Happy Hearts" may find solace in the fact they are really pikers in the optimism league as compared with Coach O. E. Owen at old Commercial High 20 years ago.

Owen declared confidently just before one season opened, "This is by far our best team. We have some great boys. I won't say which one it'll be, but we'll beat either Boys High or Tech High." (Boys High beat him 86-0; Tech High 54-0, both teams playing everybody including the water boy.) Nobody has a monopoly on being dead wrong.

Hill's 8-Under 63 Leads Denver Open

DENVER (AP)—Dave Hill of Denver led the field Thursday in the first round of the $30,000 Denver Golf Open with an 8-under-par 32-31—63 over the 6,843-yard Meadow Hills course, a nearly treeless expanse offering few hazards for the touring pros.

Thirty-seven of the 102 professionals cracked the 35-36—71 par with Bob Rosburg of Portland, Ore., coming closest to Hill with a 34-31—65.

Marist to Invade Decatur; Neighborhood Battles on Tap

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Friday will be "Neighborhood Night"—with absolutely no one intending to foster the good neighbor policy—at Greater Atlanta's high school football show places.

It will be a night not for championship deciding but for wrangles between traditional rivals on most fronts, although Marist's trip to Decatur possibly—but not probably—could become a Region 4-AAA East title decider later on.

For some elevens, it will be 1961 debut night. Others, who got their feet wet last week, will wade deeper into the waters of compensation.

West Fulton's Owls, who skinned past tough Grady last week, 13-7, have a chance to give further indication of their serious championship potential against solid North Fulton (7:30) in the City League feature at Grady Stadium.

Joel Cooper-led Bass, surprise winner over O'Keefe, 26-0, and Kim King-spurred Brown will be the first city teams to match touchdowns in over two decades at Ponce de Leon Park. And Smith takes on debuting George at Cheney.

Ed Meyer's Druid Hills' Red Devils and French Johnson's Marietta Blue Devils, both 4-AAA question marks, will converge upon each other at Avondale, not far from where Charlie Hall unveils his "New Look" Decatur unit, sparked by Dick Eickhoff, against Marist.

The neighborhood brawls, most rated as near toss-ups, include College Park at Headland, GMA at Russell, Osborne at Smyrna Campbell, Gordon at Southwest DeKalb, Forest Park at Jonesboro and South Gwinnett at Stone Mountain.

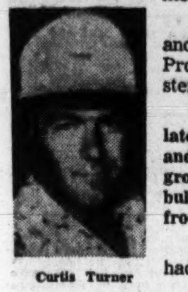
TURNER, FLOCK SIGN ONE-RACE CONTRACT

By AL THOMY

Curtis Turner and Tim Flock, a couple of ex-drivers who have been in a union squabble with NASCAR for several weeks, Thursday signed a one-race contract with Southeastern Fair Association.

Fair General Manager Maurice Coleman stressed that the contract for the Lakewood race track is a one-race, "show-me" agreement with no options or provisions.



Curtis Turner

The Constitution reported last week that Flock and Turned, charter members of the Federation of Professional Athletes, an affiliation of the Teamsters, were dickering for the track.

Turner announced the race would be a 100-mile late model event on Oct. 22 (rain date, Oct. 29), and Fonty Flock, a member of the promoting group, said that MARC had agreed to supply the bulk o fthe field, "although we'll have drivers from NASCAR and USAC, too."

The Lakewood promoting group indicated it had "20 NASCAR drivers" on its union rolls.

NASCAR president Bill France has resisted efforts of Turner and Flock to organize the drivers, and both were banned from NASCAR-sanctioned events. Legal action is expected to start in Daytona Beach Monday when Flock and Turner and lawyers arrive in that headquarters of NASCAR for a showdown.

Pat Purcell, executive director of NASCAR, said that drivers of that organization "will naturally be disciplined" if they take part in the mile dirt track race here Oct. 22.

Coleman had this to say on the contract with Flock and Turner: "We want to see what they are going to do. They wanted a contract for next year, but we told thme we could not sign such an agreement until they show us what they can do.

"The track has been idle for a year, and it was silly for us to leave it so. I want to stress again that this contract is for one race only. After that, it must be renegotiated."

A spokesman for Atlanta International Raceway said the Lakewood agreement "does not affect us in any way. That's a different type of racing and does not concern us. There is no conflict."

(2-4). The shot, on a 1-0 pitch, thundered into the right field bleachers. It was the 12th home run off a left-handed pitcher for Raj, a lefty swinger, and his seventh against the Indians in 14 games this season.

The Yankees, who a week ago Thursday night headed home from a road trip with only a 1½ game lead in the flag race, built a 3-0 lead in three innings, blew it on Tito Francona's three-run, inside the park homer in the sixth, and then chopped down the Injuns with two-run outbursts in the sixth and seventh.

It was Mantle's double, shooting off the glove of shortstop Woody Held into left field, that broke the tie in the seventh and chased Stigman. It followed a leadoff double by Tony Kubek, who also tripled and singled among the Yankees' 11 hits, and Maris' third hit, a single to right center.

The other run in the inning was forced in on a bases-loaded walk by reliever Bobby Locke.

That third run batted in of the game pushed Maris past Jim Gentile of Baltimore into the major league RBI with 128, one more than the Orioles' first baseman.

Maris' bunt, dragged past the mound, scored Kubek, who had tripled, in the first inning. The other run for the Yanks, now 57-15 at home, was unearned. It scored in the second when Ken Boyer socked a two-out triple and trotted across when Held's relay bounced away from catcher Romano.

Graves Moves Dent Up; Injuries Halt Bama Drill

From Press Dispatches

The 190-pound Savannah sophomore pulled a knee ligament in a Wednesday night drill and may be out for the season. His leg will be in a cast for three weeks and he is not expected to see action before the latter part of the season, if at all.

Russ Staples, a sophomore from Palatka, Fla., was moved into the third team center spot which Dent had been filling. Junior Wade Entminger of Tampa moved up to the first string guard.

NEWS—FEATURES—VIEWS

Acre Curbs Held Peril In Textiles

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—One of the greatest threats to America's cotton industry, says the chief economist of the National Cotton Council, is the possibility that federal restrictions will prevent farmers from producing enough.

"We desperately need to give our textile customers more confidence that there is going to be an adequate supply of cotton in the months ahead," said Dr. M. K. Horne Jr. of Memphis at the council's board of directors meeting Thursday.

CITES ERROR

"One of the greatest threats to the future of our markets," he said, "is that in 1962, as in 1950, growers may not be permitted to produce what is needed to serve these markets and to uphold the strength of the free world."

Horne said acreage allotments show allowance for unpredictable factors, which have accounted for an average net error of 2.7 million bales in U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates in recent years.

"We are moving down toward a stock level that includes no provision for any such error," he said.

4 OF 10 BALES EXPORTED

He pointed to a shift in competition, in which man-made fibers have declined in price while cotton has risen, and called for greater emphasis on research and production.

Read P. Dunn Jr. of Washington, foreign trade division director, said foreign customers take four of every 10 bales of cotton produced in America.

Frank A. McCord, head of the market research sections, said textile consumption is increasing and taking a bigger share of the cotton market. He said 81 per cent of the cotton used in this country goes into apparel and household uses.

Atlanta Produce

Trading was rather light with receipts moderate on the Atlanta produce market Thursday morning. Good quality snap and pole beans and yellow crookneck squash were scarce; cabbage was slightly weaker. North Carolina 50-pound bags jobbed 1.15-1.35, mostly 1.25 with poorer 1.00. Georgia sweet potatoes jobbed 3.00-3.50 per bushel with small 2.00-2.25 and large 2.50-2.75 bushel. Turnip greens and mustard were slow at 1.00-1.50 bushel and collards sold for mostly 1.50 dozen on good quality stock. Apples were unchanged with 138 size Delicious at 4.75-5.00; 125 size 5.00-5.50 and 100s mostly 5.50 with some larger from South Carolina at 5.75 per carton. Virginia and West Virginia pecahes were in light supply and sold 3.50-5.00 per bushel according to size and quality. Alabama pole beans jobbed at 3.50; Georgia fair to best were 2.50-3.50 bushel and round green beans 2.25-2.50 with best high as 3.00 and poorer low as 1.00; North Carolina poles sold at 3.50.

Yellow crookneck squash moved at 5.00-5.50 bushel and some large 2.50 and up. Butter beans showed wide range in quality and price from 2.00 to 3.50 with few best white high as 3.75 per bushel. Field peas of various varieties ranged 1.25-1.50, few 1.75 bushel; fancy cucumbers from Michigan were 3.75; New York 3.50-3.75 and from Georgia and North Carolina mostly 3.50 per bushel. Georgia eggplant moved at 1.50-2.50 bushel and ookra was unchanged at 2.00-2.50 bushel with movement slow. Few large were quoted 1.25-1.50 bushel. White corn was selling 30-35 cents dozen ears and sacked five dozen 2.00-2.25. Georgia bell peppers medium to large held at 1.75-2.25, mostly 2.00 bushel with some fingerhot for 2.50-3.00 bushel. Georgia eight-quart baskets of tomatoes sold 75-1.25 and North Carolina vine-ripened 20-pound cartons of medium to very large were 2.00-2.50, few large high as 3.00 and some ripe all sizes low as 1.50.

Don't Raise Steel Price, U.S. Warns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy warned the steel industry Thursday that government action might be necessary if the industry raises prices after scheduled steel wage boosts go into effect Oct. 1.

In letters to 12 big steel executives, the President raised the possibility of "restrictive monetary and fiscal measures" if their companies do not hold the price line. He said steel price rises would raise defense costs, perhaps as much as half a billion dollars.

UNION OBLIGATION

The President also said in his letter that if industry holds the price line now, union leaders would be obligated next year to "limit wage demands to a level consistent with continued price stability."

The President did not spell out what government action he had in mind. But when government economists talk of restrictive fiscal measures they usually mean tax increases. There also could be reduced federal spending in such non-defense fields as highways.

Restrictive monetary measures could mean some adjustment in interest rates by the Federal Reserve Board.

"GOOD PROFITS"

The President told the steel executives that his economic advisers had informed him the steel industry could "look forward to good profits without an increase in prices." He said a steel price rise would boost other prices and shatter current price stability.

"YOUR CHILD IS MY CHALLENGE"

I say this because I now have two children in Public Schools. I am quite familiar with the problems of our schools today—and I pledge to do my best as a member of the School Board to see that your child and mine get an education second to none!

"Your Tax Money is My Responsibility"

The Atlanta School Board has unlimited taxing power—and it spends more money than the rest of the city government put together.

As the only businessman in my race, I can pledge that your child will get the most from your school tax dollar—and that the school board will not exploit its vast power to levy taxes.

C&S Plans Open House In Buckhead

Completion of a $300,000 expansion and rebuilding program in the Buckhead office of the Citizens & Southern Bank of Atlanta will be marked with open house Monday through Friday of next week.

Athos Menaboni of Atlanta has done a series of five panels featuring the rare and beautiful whooping crane in life proportions.

James M. Shepherd, vice president in charge of the Buckhead office, said the building is air conditioned and has been expanded to a frontage of 75 feet on Peachtree Street. Additional floor space affords 16 teller windows—double the former number.

Treasury Will Borrow $5 Billion by Oct. 10

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Treasury Thursday announced plans to borrow $5 billion in new cash between now and mid-October and to allow owners of $7.6 billion of World War II bonds to extend their investment until 1998.

The department said it will auction $2.5 billion of tax anticipation bills on Sept. 20. Early next month, it said, it will offer about $2 billion of notes maturing in the spring of 1963.

The borrowing operation will be completed Oct. 10 when the department will auction $2 billion of one-year bills to replace $1.5 billion of bills maturing Oct. 16.

HIGHER RATE

In addition, owners of $7.6 billion of 2.5 per cent bonds issued in 1944 will be given a chance to exchange them for other outstanding bonds maturing in 1980, 1990 and 1998.

The World War II bonds normally would mature between 1965 and 1971.

Those who choose to exchange the old bonds will collect 3.5 per cent interest on the new securities. Those who hold their old ones would, when they mature, have to reinvest at rates ranging from 4.28 per cent to 4.36 per cent to do as well.

TOPS CEILING

This thus will be the first financing operation in which the department offers bonds carrying an effective yield above the legal ceiling of 4.25 per cent.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy ruled earlier this year that the Treasury could exceed the ceiling if the bonds carried a coupon rate of no more than 4.25 per cent but were offered at less than par value, which would have the effect of increasing the actual yield. That will be the effect in this case.

INVITATION TO BID

Sealed proposals will be received in the Office of the Director, Georgia Training School for Boys, P.O. Box 788, Milledgeville, Georgia, until 11 a.m., E.S.T., Friday, September 29, 1961, for providing all management, planning, supervision, labor, tools, rigging, tackle, transportation, and equipment required for the installation ONLY of the poles, transformers, primary and secondary conductors, guys, fuses, disconnects, switches, pole line hardware, material and accessories (all by others) necessary to revamp and recondition the OUTDOOR OVERHEAD PRIMARY AND SECONDARY ELECTRIC DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM of the Georgia Training School for Boys, Milledgeville, Georgia.

At the time and place noted above, the proposals will be publicly opened and read. No extension of the bidding will be made.

Contract documents, specifications and drawing may be obtained upon deposit of $10 per set from the Engineering Office of the Georgia Training School for Boys, Milledgeville, Georgia. This sum will be forfeited and retained by the School if the Contractor fails to submit bona fide bid; otherwise, this deposit will be refunded in full to each bidder upon the return of such set in good condition within fifteen (15) days after opening of the bid.

Contract, if awarded, will be on a lump sum basis. No bid may be withdrawn for a period of thirty (30) days after time has been called on the day of the opening. Bids must be accompanied by a Bid Bond in an amount not less than 5% of the bid. Both a Performance and a Payment Bond will be required in an amount equal to 100% of the contract price.

Bidders are required to submit evidence with their proposals of having satisfactorily completed jobs similar to the one covered by the Contract Specifications and state names of owners and locations of these jobs.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF VOCATIONAL EDUCATION, JACK P. NIX, STATE DIRECTOR.
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS:

Sealed bids will be received from General Contractors by the State Department of Education, Division of Vocational Education, Jack P. Nix, State Director, in the office of the State Director, 254 State Office Building, Atlanta, Georgia, until 11:00 A.M. (EST) Wednesday, October 4, 1961, for the furnishing of all labor and materials necessary for the construction of the above named building according to plans and specifications. Bids will be publicly opened and read aloud at the time and place stated.

Drawings, specifications and bid forms may be obtained from Jacobs and Matthews, Architects, 311 N. Green Street, Gainesville, Georgia, on deposit of $50.00 after September 8, 1961. Bidders attention is especially called to the "Supplementary General Conditions" which have been made a part of the General Conditions of the A.I.A. Contract. Deposits will be returned in full if the items are returned in good condition within fourteen days after bids are opened.

Contract, if awarded, will be on a lump sum basis. No bid may be withdrawn for a period of thirty five (35) days after date of opening. Bids must be accompanied by a bid bond payable to The State Department of Education, Division of Vocational Education, in an amount equal to five (5) per cent of the base bid. Performance Bond and Material Bond in amounts equal respectively to 100% and 50% of the Contract Sum will be required of the successful bidder. These bonds are to be executed by a Surety Company licensed to do business in the State of Georgia.

The Owner will make payments to the successful Contractor upon receipt of requests for payments, having been certified by the Architect, as fully covered and shown in the plans and specifications.

A copy of the plans and specifications are posted in the office of Mr. Jack P. Nix, State Director, Division of Vocational Education, 254 State Office Building, Atlanta, Georgia.

The Owner reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids and to waive technicalities.

Dip Forecast In Car Output This Week

DETROIT (UPI) — The Labor Day holiday and scattered strikes at General Motors plants will cut auto production to 86,421 cars this week, Automotive News said Thursday.

This week's production would compare with 91,098 units produced last week and 52,753 for the same week last year.

The trade paper estimated that 20,102 trucks would be produced this week, some four-thousand less than last week But the truck output would be higher than 13,152 units for the same week last year.

Electronics' Selloff Kills Stocks' Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—A selling squall hit a number of electronics and spread to other issues late Thursday, cutting short a continued stock market rally and leaving many more losers than gainers by the close.

Thanks to gains by a number of blue chips represented in the averages, however, some of these market yardsticks actually advanced in the face of a pretty general retreat.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, for instance, took off from Wednesday's historic high to rise .52, establishing a closing record of 726.53. At 1 p.m. (EDT), however, the Dow industrials stood at 730.62.

The more comprehensive 500-stock index of Standard & Poor's fell .11 to 68.55. This more closely reflected the performance of the over-all list.

SOME REASONS

Brokers were puzzled at the sudden break in electronics and some other volatile issues but as time went on they came up with some possible reasons: First, weakness in Texas Instruments, attributed to selling by institutional investors, had spread to other electronics; second, the poor "tape action" by the electronics led to nervous selling by traders; third, stoploss orders were touched off, accenuating the losses; and, fourth, some might have sold in advance of Jewish holidays next week.

Coming as very much of an afterthought, some analysts took note of Indian Prime Minister Jawaharal Nehru's gloom about peace prospects after his interview with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev; and also the wildcat strikes in the auto industry and the large number of knotty local issues to be solved before a labor agreement can finally be reached.

RALLY CUT SHORT

Steels and motors paced a continued rally during most of the session. The weakness in the erstwhile "glamor" stocks developed very quickly about an hour and a half before the session's end.
